Congress changes its mind—no tax hike

by DON PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress and President Ford Friday agreed on a compromise tax cut bill containing a vague promise by the lawmakers to hold down government spending.

Ford sald he would sign the bill. The compromise, achieved only minutes before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, meant withholding taxes will not go up in January but will instead continue at the reduced levels the 1975 tax cut as any future tax cuts. The House verprovided last spring.

Over-all, the bill goes beyond this year's cuts and will mean a slight reduction in income taxes next year for most taxpayers.

After a day-long struggle involving Ford and Democratic leaders from both the House and Senate, Senate leaders agreed to accept the House version of language promising to cut the 1977 budget by the same amount sion was watered down somewhat from the Senate's more specific promise to cut "dollar for dollar."

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in debate that the House language amounted to as firm a commitment to cut spending as the language of the earlier Senate bill.

The apparent compromise was a dramatic reversal from the hard headed position both Ford and the Democrats took less than 24 hours earlier when it appeared that Congress would go home for Christmas and allow tax cuts to expire on Jan. 1.

Except for the watered down spending language, short of what Ford originally demanded, the bill was exactly the same as the one he vetoed on

Ford earlier told the Senate he would accept its version of the spending language, which was attached to the tax bill, 82 to 0. The bill itself passed 73 to 7.

Later, when angry House Democrats changed some of the wording of the Senate pledge, House GOP leader John Rhodes said Ford would prefer the Senate version. But Rhodes did not say that Ford would veto the House version.

"The President does prefer the Senate version," Rhodes said. "I find no great fault in either one of them."

The House then passed the bill overwhelmingly with heavy GOP support on a vote of 372 to 10.

Ford has consistently said he would not sign any tax cut bill that did not (Continued on Page 3)

Becky really makes the day

Goldstein. In her Hoffman Estates home far away from her native Vietnam, Becky will spend her first Christmas

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all, Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name, a new life - months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings in a longshot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian child and adopt her.

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture. Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her," Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to hide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girlfriends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed.

"But she's not having any problems at all adjusting," Mrs. Goldstein said, "She can read ("a little bit," Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people, which is one of the things we were concerned about at first."

Becky has learned from her friends, her mother

said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine," Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wash't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad bécause I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them apart." she said.

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go and I tell him 'that's what you said about Viet-

Youth officer cautions:

Juvenile crime on rise; society picks up the cost

The serious crime rate for juveniles continued to rise in Arlington Heights

Major thefts, burglaries and assaults against persons are on the increase, said Lt. Paul Buckholz, head of the juvenile bureau of the Arlington Heights Police Dept.

Buckholz said lax parental control and an excess of violence in television programs and movies are major contributors to the problem. He said when parents take an active role in controlling childrens' behavior outside the home, the problem diminishes.

The year-to-year increases in the juvenile crime rate are sometimes small, Buckholz said, but when taken over an extended period the increase is startling.

"THE LAST THREE to four years every new little bit (of an increase) gets added to what went before. It's all adding up," he said.

Using department statistics from 1971 through November 1975, crimes in most serious categories have gone up Buckholz said record keeping problems this year resulted in about eight weeks of juvenile statistics being unrecorded, but the rates increased nevertheless. During the period reviewed, aggravated assaults (attacks against teachers, park personnel or which result in permanent bodily injury) have gone from five in 1971 to 10 so far in 1975. Other assaults have jumped from 43 to 83 in the same period. BURGLARIES HAVE gone from 37 to 100; while larcenies have gone from 162 cases to 180.

Criminal damage to property cases have gone from 136 in 1971 to 148 this year. The 1975 total to date however. reflects a sharp decrease from last year's 234 case tally.

Despite the drop in numbers of damage cases, Buckholz warned against undue optimism.

When you start talking in terms of dollars and cents from these, the amount would just amaze you," he

TELEVISION PROGRAMMING concentrating on police or "action" programs received a great deal of the biame from Buckholz.

"Just think for a minute what it means when a child sees three or four murders in a half hour. And the fights aren't realistic. You never really see what happens to someone after a bad fight," he said.

"If television wants to have realism, let them make it realistic then. Show what really happens, but not when the children can see it. Put it on after 10:30 when, hopefully, most of the children are in bed and not in front of the television," he said.

United jets preparation starts today

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday. The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7,000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it. They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday, would be "expedited looking toward

Officials urge vote on Dist. 54 tax hike

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 administrators are urging the board of education to hold a referendum to increase taxes in the face of a threatening five-year financial forecast. "If we wait too long to make these recommendations to the public, we're going to end up like some of our neighbors, millions of dollars in the hole. Supt Wayne Schaible warned. The board is expected to decide next month if a Feb. 14 referendum will be held. No amount for the proposed tax hike has been set. Taxpayers in the district, the largest elementary district in the state, now pay $1.98 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Cut pay of lax police: chief

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has proposed cutting the salaries of police officers he feels "aren't carrying their weight." Horcher's proposal follows his recommendation last week to deny a normally automatic pay raise to Wheeling police officers, including one whom Horcher indicated had not written enough traffic tickets. Horcher has taken a hard line on department efficiency since a study revealed some officers were issuing as few as five traffic tickets in a six-month period while others were issuing as many as

Meadows drops some realty taxes

The Rolling Meadows City Council has voted to eliminate some $272,000 in real estate property taxes for 1975 despite a warning from its city treasurer that the action "will leave the city in a financial bind "City Treasurer Robert Cole has told the council the tax abatement action could force the city to charge residents for services next year. Only two of the council's 10 aldermen voted against the abatement, which is expected to save about $25 on property assessed at $10,000. The city this year has already experienced economic troubles because of the declining economy and mistakes in calculating the city's current budget and tax levy. A moratorium on hirlng also has been in effect since July by order of Mayor Roland J Meyer.

Dist. 62 officials get 9% hikes

Des Plaines Dist 62 has released its 1975-76 administration salaries which show top-level administrators and principals receiving an average 9.26 per cent increase. Supt. Eric Sahlberg received an 11 per cent increase to raise his annual salary from $36,000 to $40,000. Other top level administrators received salary incre ranging from 6 6 per cent to 10.86 per cent. Teachers in the district were given 7 per cent increases in a two-year contract agreement. The salary figures were released after criticism of the district's refusal to release public information.

Trailer park, county in sale accord

An out-of-court settlement allowing the Cook County Forest Preserve District to purchase the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park was reached Friday between the park's owner and district officials. The settlement could save the state $200,000 in material and labor costs for antiflood equipment which would be needed to prevent the trailer park from flooding when the Upper Salt Creek Watershed project dam is constructed Officials are hopeful the 750 residents of the trailer park can be relocated before installation of the antiflood equipment is necessary by early summer.

HEW to consider review process

State explains Medicaid freeze

by STEVE BROWN

Illunois welfare officials met a federal deadline Friday by supplying information on a state freeze of 125 million in Medicaid payments to hospi-

A spokesman for James L Trainor, director of the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid, said he had provided information to the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare regarding questions HEW had about a new state Medicaid payment review process.

The new review process is one of the latest steps by the Walker administration to hold state spending to a minimum Illinois hospitals have been critical of the program and have accused Walker of using health care as a political issue.

A SPOKESMAN for Trainor said HEW had requested clarification on whether the state will inform the hospital of the review criteria and what the review criteria will be. The new review process calls for Medicaid payments to be based on hospital rates that were in effect on Oct. 6, unless a review board has approved a State officials indicated the board has not yet formulated its criteria, but that when the information becomes available it will be provided to both the hospitals and HEW.

HEW officials indicated Friday they had received Trainor's response, but had not reviewed the matter.

Trainor's spokesman was critical of a statement issued by the Illinois Hospital Assn. which reported HEW's request for information and indicated that if HEW did not approve the payment review proposal it could not go

FEDERAL OFFICIALS indicated HEW has delayed a final decision or approving the new review plan until it receives all information on what criteria the state will use in examining hospital payment requests.

Hospitals around the state have complained the Walker plan will prevent hospitals from passing along inflationary costs.

"The situation is tragically simple The Walker administration - which pays only 85 per cent of the actual hospital costs - is trying to pass on even greater losses to hospitals in order to make the budget of the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid look good," said Robert W. O'Leary, president of the Illinois Hospital Assn.

Little peril in eggs: consumers group

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Consumers Union said Friday the danger of developing heart ailments from eating eggs has been exaggerated.

The organization, which publishes the magazine Consumer Reports, said only a small portion of cholesterol comes from the diet.

"Current research shows that dietary cholesterol apparently doesn't have as much effect on blood cholesterol as had been believed," it said in an article in the January issue of the magazine released in advance.

'More important, it seems, in lowering high blood cholesterol levels is a decrease in the consumption of saturated fats, found mainly in red meat and whole-milk dairy products, especially butter.

As a result, it said, the danger of developing heart disease from eating eggs "has been exaggerated."

The views come just a few days after a Federal Trade Commission judge ruled that the egg industry engaged in false and misleading advertising through an advertising campaign which claimed there was no ment at all to the egg-cholesterol argument.

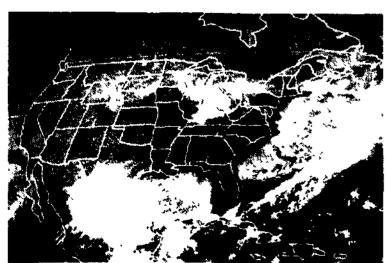

The industry is appealing that ruling to the full commission.

Busing curb rejected in Ford veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Ford Friday vetoed as too expensive a $45 billion appropriations bill that would have prohibited HEW from requiring school districts to bus students beyond the school nearest their home for racial purposes.

Without reference to the busing provision, Ford called the bill "a classic example of . . . unchecked spending.' The bill would have provided nearly $1 billion more than Ford had requested for fiscal year 1976 for the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, the Labor Dept. and several related agencies.

The House put off until Jan. 27 a decision on whether to try to override the veto, Ford's 42nd. Seven of those vetoes have been overridden by Congress. The House failed Thursday to override his veto of the tax cut bill.

Although the antibusing provisions would not have affected most desegregation-related school busing, which has been ordered by courts. HEW officials had told lawmakers in an "impact statement" that they feared the provisions could sharply restrict HEW enforcement of civil rights laws in public schools and colleges.

The anti-busing language could have required the department to allow some segregated schools and activities to remain segregated, the statement said.

Another provision in the vetoed bill would have required federal occupational safety inspectors to redirect their efforts toward greater protection of worker health. The bill also ordered the National Cancer Institute to use up to $3 million to improve the search for job-related causes of can-

Ford said that if the bill became law, it would add 8,000 workers to the federal payroll ". . . I believe the overwhelming majority agree with my view that there are already too many employes in the federal government," he said.

"Not only would the $45 billion total in this bill add significantly to the already burdensome federal deficits expected this year and next, but the individual increases themselves are unjustified, unnecessary and unwise," Ford said.

"This bill is, therefore, inconsistent with fiscal discipline and with effective restraint on the growth of gov-

S. Moluccans free 25 hostages

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (UPI) - Seven South Moluccan gunmen surrendered with defiant war whoops Friday, freeing 25 hostages held for more than two weeks in the Indonesian consulate.

The hostages, smiling and waving and in apparent good health, walked out of the consulate to the cheers of crowds pushing against police barri-

The jubilant captives hugged, kissed and shook the hands of Dutch policemen before being taken away in a waiting bus. Joyful relatives wept, shouted and waved as the ordeal end-

Five minutes later, the seven gunmen, who stormed the consulate Dec. 4 in a hail of gunfire, marched out of the building one-by-one into a freezing rain shouting out the battle cry "Mena muria!" We carry on.

Police swarmed over the area to the barking of police dogs. Sharpshooters crouched in bushes and on rooftops.

Jubilant residents of the consulate street, some who had been trapped inside their homes for the duration, ran outside, laughing and clapping. The gunmen were driven off in a column of motorcycles and vans to police headquarters. They again led inside to be interrogated.

An apparent Dutch willingness to discuss the South Moluccans' grievances was reported to have clinched their decision to give up. The dramatic surrender ended a 15day siege and came five days after another group of South Moluccans gave up and freed 23 hostages held on a hijacked train in the Dutch countryside since Dec 1.

Both groups of gunmen had demanded Dutch help in gaining independence for their Indonesian-ruled home islands in the Western Pacific. Indonesia was once a Dutch colony.

The twin sieges left four persons dead - three were murdered by the train gunmen and one man died from injuries he received in jumping from the consulate during the takeover.

Throughout the dual dramas, leading members of Holland's 36,000-strong South Moluccan community acted as mediators between Dutch authorities and the gunmen.

The Rev. Semol Metiary, the key go-between, and Johannes Manusawa, president of the self-proclaimed South Moluccan Republic, met face-to-face with the consulate gunmen for half an hour before they gave up.

PLEASANTON, Calif. (UPI) - A tearful but elated Wendy Yoshimura, 31, Patricia Hearst's roommate before her arrest, was released from a prison farm on $25,000 bail Friday and said she would not try to flee to the underground where she spent 31/2 years.

But she indicated she might try to visit Miss Hearst, being held across San Francisco Bay in the San Mateo

"I realize how difficult it was for Judge Lionel Wilson to release me on bail, and I will honor his trust in me.' said Miss Yoshimura, who had been sought since 1972 on a charge of possession of illegal explosives. "I have every intention of acting accordingly."

Her eyes filling with tears, she expressed "deepest love and gratitude" to her parents, farmers who live in Fresno, Calif., and to members of the Japanese-American community who raised the bail money.

One of the 60 newsmen present outside the Santa Rita Prison Farm asked Miss Yoshimura whether she intended to visit Miss Hearst, with whom she spent a year prior to their arrest in a San Francisco hideout

"Oh? Can I visit her?" she replied, surprised. Her attorney, James Larson, said the judge's order was "unclear on that point and we have made no decision."

Larson said reports confirmed by the Justice Dept. that Miss Yoshimura had helped change Miss Hearst's radical views and her concern for the newspaper heiress' safety probably contributed to the judge's deicision to reduce her bail.

The San Francisco Examiner, whose president is Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, said Miss Yoshimura had urged Patricia to sign an affidavit saving she was brainwashed by the Symbionese Liberation Armv.

Miss Yoshimura's fingerprints were found in a South Canaan, Pa., farmhouse where Miss Hearst and Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris hid out during the summer of 1974. Miss Yoshimura accompanied the group back across the United States to Sacramento, Calif., and then to San Francisco, where they all were arrested.

She is charged in connection with the bombing of an ROTC building at the University of California, Berkeley, in 1972. Two men have been sentenced to prison in connection with the incident. Her trial is scheduled to begin Jan. 26.

contain a ceiling on fiscal 1977 spend-

White House Deputy Press Sec. William Greener earlier said Ford was "encouraged" by the language in the Senate bill, saying it was what the President wanted all along.

The bill makes a nonbinding promise to make cuts in the fiscal 1977 budget equal to the amount of any future tax cut beyond the $6.4 billion in cuts contained in the bill.

However, Ford had to give in far more than Congress in accepting the compromise because it does not contain any specific spending ceiling. It also says Congress will follow its normal budget procedures, and it also gives Congress the right to juggle budget totals in any way.

The compromise language was worked out in a Thursday night meeting between Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long, Sen. William Roth, R-Del., and Reps. Joe Waggonner, D-La., and Barber Conable, R-N.Y.

Following the hour-long meeting, the four called the White House and relayed the compromise language to the White House staff. They received a call early Friday morning saying Ford would accept it.

Long was the only Democratic leader in an angry Thursday afternoon meeting to continue to insist on compromise. Other Democratic leaders said they were ready to go home for Christmas and let Ford live with his

"Both sides have been accusing the other of being the grinch that stole Christmas," Long told newsmen.

Home, car owners hit hardest by cost-of-living hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Home and automobile owners bore the brunt of inflation in November as the cost of living rose 0.7 per cent for the second consecutive month, the Labor Dept. sald Friday.

Big increases in the costs of auto insurance, mortgage interest rates, property taxes, natural gas, telephone services and a few other items made a noticeable dent in the increased pay of the average worker in November.

This two-month surge in consumer prices at an annual rate of 8.4 per cent disappointed administration economists who have estimated the current underlying trend of inflation at between 6 per cent and 7 per cent.

But James Pate, assistant commerce secretary, said the November report does not alter those estimates. He attributed the continued steady rise to an unexpected 1.1 per cent increase in service costs and the failure of food prices to fall as much as anticipated.

Although the 0.6 per cent rise in consumer food prices was much smaller than in October, it did not reflect a recent decline in wholesale and farm prices for food

The Consumer Price Index was 165.6 in November -7.3 per cent higher than a year ago. It meant that goods and services that cost $100 in 1967, now cost $165.60. Auto insurance rates went up 8.5 per cent in November. Auto repairs and parking fees rose 1 per cent, and new car prices increased 0.9 per cent - reflecting the introduction of 1976 models.

Tire prices also rose while gasoline and motor oil costs declined less than normal for November. But used car buyers got a 1.1 per cent break on prices.

Homeowners and families buying homes also were hardhit. Household service costs rose 1.3 per cent, reflecting 1975 record increases of 1.6 per cent in mortgage interest rates, 2.1 per cent in property taxes, 3.5 per cent in natural gas prices and 1.4 per cent in telephone services.

Mortgage rates were strongly influenced by higher interest on FHA-insured loans. Prices for household appliances, furnishings, fuel oil and coal also rose.

The over-all cost of homeownership was up 1 per cent, while renters paid only 0.4 per cent more. Grocery prices increased about 0.5 per cent, led by cereal and bakery goods, dairy products, coffee, fruits and poultry. Pork prices declined after rising seven straight months and beef prices also fell. Although the average worker's gross earnings rose 0.9 per cent in November, inflation reduced the increase in his real spendable earnings to 0.7 per cent. Over the year, real spendable earnings were up 3.9 per cent as a result of a federal tax cut.

Cooper vows job security

Republican gubernatorial candidate Richard Cooper said Friday that if he were elected governor he would attempt to guarantee jobs to all unemployed Illinois workers.

Cooper told a news conference he is proposing an agency which would function like a temporary employment service, paying the workers directly and receiving reimbursement from private businesses which use them. As a "last resort," he said, the new agency would put unemployed persons to work on totally government-financed public works jobs.

He said the workers would be allowed to keep their unemployment compensation and welfare benefits while employed under his plan and would be paid a small salary in additon to bring their total pay up to minimum-wage levels.

'Hey you guys...' Only 14, his favorite star is Cagney

The quiet of Keith Mitchell's room at Northwest Community Hospital was broken when the phone rang. Keith's mother, Helen, answered it.

"Hello, Mrs. Mitchell. How are you?" The caller was actor James Cagney, Keith's favorite movie star.

When she held the phone to Keith's ear he opened his eyes. "I don't know what was said. We'll never know," she said.

KEITH MITCHELL is a sick boy. He developed a rare form of brain cancer 16 months ago. Now the 14-year-old Arlington Heights youth lies in a semicoma. When the man whom he has impersonated for many years called, he could only listen.

"Even as sick as he has been the past year Keith has still always impersonated James Cagney," Mrs. Mitchell said. "He hasn't been able to talk for a couple months but he'd still go through the motions. Until two weeks ago.

"He always got a laugh out of everybody.

The call was initiated by "a friend" from Arlington Heights who called the secretary of radio personality Wally Phillips to tell of Keith's love for Cagney. Phillips' secretary contacted Cagney's agent a few weeks ago with the idea but the actor had been gone until Thursday. Even then Cagney

After talking to Keith for almost five minutes, Cagney spoke again with Mrs. Mitchell. "Give him a big hug and kiss for me," he said.

"After the call I asked Keith if he knew that he had just talked with James Cagney. He shook his head yes," Mrs. Mitchell said.

Making a choice is what the primary process is all about, but all too often the voters are not given this opportunity. Especially in Illinois, party leaders too often have met behind closed doors to pat their chosen candidates on the head and send their names forth to the ballot.

The process need not create permanent divisions following the primary, and it won't if both factions act responsibly.

> It appears the hottest contest between Ford and Reagan supporters might occur locally in the 12th congressional district. U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, is head of Reagan's Illinois campaign. He firmly believes at least two of the district's four delegates should be pledged to Reagan.

> Harold Smith, Barrington Township Republican committeeman, is committed to Ford. He is opposed to any compromise and believes four Ford delegates should represent the district.

The lack of agreement probably will mean delegates pledged to each man will run against each other.

The competition between supporters of incumbent Ford and challenger Reagan will be a good opportunity for the voters to exercise their franchise. It also will lend some force to Illinois Republican wishes when it comes down to who gets the nomination. The presidential preference primary really carries little weight in this regard.

Leaders are predicting the Illinois primary will be of major importance in determining whom the GOP nominates for president. For more than 130,000 Viets

American dream is complex

by DONALD E. MULLEN United Press International

"I formerly had homesickness, but now it has lessened.'

The poignant and halting reply from young Luu Xuan Phouc, who left his family behind in South Vietnam and now works for a poultry processing firm in Grannis, Ark., might also apply to the thousands of other Southeast Asians uprooted by the fortunes of war and tossed into the bewildering garden of American culture.

In a little more than seven months since the fall of South Vietnam, 140,730 refugees have arrived in the United States seeking a haven. Of these 130,729-126,800 Vietnamese and 3,929 Cambodians remain in this coun-

BY MID December, about 126,000 refugees had found new homes across the country. And officials hope that by New Year's the remaining 5,000 or so homeless can be resettled and the last of the "Little Saigon" camps closed.

Like the millions who preceded them in search of freedom and happiness, from Mayflower pilgrims to exiles from Castro's Cuba, the new arrivals have found that the American Dream is a complex mixture of opportunity, hard work-and lots of luck.

They also found a country tired and sickened by the Vietnam War and caught in a growing recession. They found there were Americans who were distrustful and unwilling to accept them. They found impersonal and often grudging bureaucratic help.

But they also found that there were thousands of others who cared; who not only gave lip service to the plight of the new exiles, but who were willing to donate time, money and personal attention to their needs.

One of the fortunate families is the huge clan of Tu Cao Nguyen, who spent months in refugee camps after fleeing Saigon in a fishing boat.

"Everything is going well," said the 47-year-old Nguyen, who recently set-tled in Jefferson City, Mo., with his 45-year-old wife, 16 children aged 1 through 24, one grandchild and an elderly sister-in-law.

AMONG 350 families sponsored by Catholics in the Jefferson City diocese, the Nguyens and 14 of their children live in a refurbished two-story stucco home well insulated from the unfamiliar cold and snow of Missouri winters. Two daughters, their husbands still in Vietnam, live nearby.

In the first week of their new home, the Nguyen children were introduced to Halloween trick-or-treating. At Thanksgiving, the delighted children found eight inches of snow on their front lawn and built their first snowman. Now, they are excited about decorating a Christmas tree.

The Nguyens are sponsored by Rosemary Scheppers and Pat Minks and their families. Both were reluctant to discuss the hardships of sponsoring such a huge family.

"God has blessed us abundantly and we just wanted to share it with somebody else," Mrs. Minks said.

Nguyen, employed by a local auto dealer, is still struggling with English.

AS HE LOOKED out at his brand new world covered with snow, he commented through an interpreter, "It's so beautiful - but it's so cold."

In terms of American history, the Asians' exodus was supersonic. It began in the frantic horror of the last week of April, as the Communists closed in on Saigon. On May 1 it was over with the surrender of the city.

Berry's World

Those who escaped the blitzkreig finish of the war and fled to the United States varied from peasant farmers and fishermen to former Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Some were wealthy from war profits, many were well educated, but most of them spent what they had in saving their fami-

The trail to exile stretched 10,000 miles from hastily assembled camps in the Philippines, on Guam and Wake Island, to Camp Pendleton, Calif., Ft. Chaffee, Ark., Ft. Indiantown Gap, Pa., and to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

And as Americans woke up to the fact that thousands of homeless, jobless refugees were descending on them, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger explained it succinctly:

"WE HAD A moral obligation to these people who relied on us for 15

Seven months later, the refugees are spread to every state of the union. Many have jobs, and in some cases whole families are working. Others are attending college or undergoing training or re-training. Children are trying to learn English and fit in with their schoolmates.

Thousands of others, however, are on welfare and food stamps. Some have had bad experiences with their sponsors. Others, former professional men and women, have felt the bitter experience of working at menial jobs.

The refugees' basic problem is language. To most of them, English is at best a third language after French and their native tongue. Without a knowledge of English they are hampered in a job market that grows

With the impending closing of the two remaining refugee camps, Ft. Chaffee and Ft. Indiantown Gap, the Inter-agency Refugee Task Force will disband and turn over responsibility for the refugee program to the Department of Health, Education and Congress appropriated $505,277,000 for support and assistance to the refugees. Although all the bills for the massive resettlement are not in yet, Task Force officials say there will be money left over.

The remaining funds will probably go to Health, Education and Welfare to further assist the new Americans, a Task Force spokesman said.

However, HEW officials Insist a special refugee program is not going to be established.

"OUR TASK WILL be to get them into the normal stream of social services," a HEW spokesman said.

Many of the refugees are already into that "stream" with more than half of California's almost 27,000 refugees drawing some form of welfare, and other states reporting refugees on public aid.

The principal work of finding jobs for the refugees and families to take them into homes is being done by 10 volunteer groups operating under the umbrella of the American Council of Volunteer Agencies.

Officials of the various groups stress that the refugees' story is only in its opening chapter, with the first flush of arrival barely over and the long process of settling in yet to be completed.

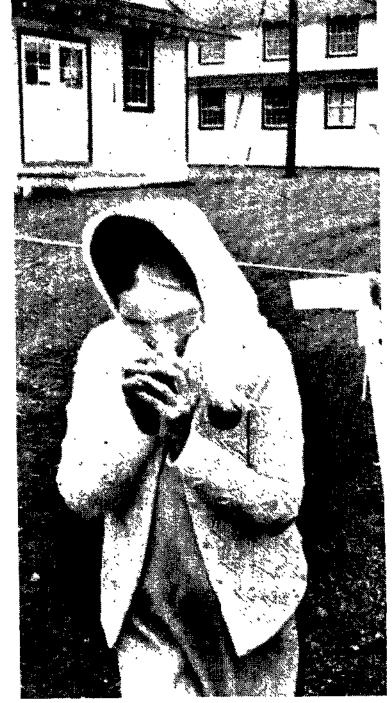

"The first year will be the big year for drifting, unhappiness and movement," said Galen Beery, director of the Church World Services. "There will be a great deal of movement. particularly among single men, until they find friends or relatives. I see a coalescing of groups in big cities."

MORRIS COUNTY, N.J., Dec. 20 -Loyalist Speaker of the Assembly Courtlandt Skinner, convicted of opposing the American cause, wrote his brother: "We are on the eve, I may say, have actually begun a revolution. The Congress are our King, Lords and Commons."

HAI SAID THAT if his family could not "suffer" through the winter, he would move, probably to California.

"We have nothing here," he said. "We just pack and then we go."

The Hais have definite ideas about what they like and dislike about America.

"I like the education," Hai said. "My sons are getting a good education over here. We put our sons on the plane first when we left South Vietnam because we don't want them to have Communist-controlled education. We can sacrifice ourselves, but not Hai's wife complained of baving to cook. In South Vietnam, she said, servants did all the work. Hai said he, too, had problems of working because he was used to servants.

After working a few days here, he said, he realized that "any kind of job is not bad. It's bad if you can't work. I realize that in this country while you are working then you feel proud."

THE HAIS ATE Thanksgiving dinner with their American sponsors and plan to give the sponsors a Christmas

The family won't celebrate Christmas themselves, but Hai said he may buy a Christmas tree next year "if we can afford it."

For now, Saigon is a far-off dream for the family.

"We always pray that we can go home," Hai said.

"From the very first day here we were discouraged. I think the discouragement or shamely that we had to leave our rel friends over there."

Ho, ho, and a Merry Christmas!

Dear Santa Claus:

I hope you're not mad at me for addressing my Christmas columns to the Easter Bunny for the past two years. I only did it because I didn't think you'd have time to read them since they hit print on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, but on the other hand E. B. had all the time in the

This year, though, you and I have a few days to spare and I'd like to talk to you about something.

It's my outdoor Christmas wreath, the one thing that distinguishes my little ranch house from all the others on the block, and you might be considering using it as a landmark to find

It isn't there. It was there last Christmas

AND IT WAS STILL there on Easter Sunday and Arbor Day and Memorial Day and the Fourth of July and the Fourth of August which is Lizzie Borden Liberation Day and on La-

During National Popcorn Week in October I almost took it down but then I thought, "Aha! Let this be the first year I beat the rest of the neighborhood in getting my outdoor Christmas decorations up.

But then a big wind came along in November and blew it off its hook and out of sight.

And an easy-to-get-lost lady friend who used my Christmas wreath as a means of finding my house was two days late arriving for dinner.

AND MY NEIGHBORS said, "What a dingaling - she leaves her Christmas wreath up all summer long and then takes it down when Christmas is

I hope you believe that I didn't take it down on purpose just before Christmas or that it was still up March 30 because I like the Easter Bunny better than you.

I love you. And please don't fall over my outdoor Christmas wreath it's right inside the front door.

Merry Christmas, Santa Claus. And everybody else. You too, E. B.

Season sets people up for let-down

Learn to avoid Christmas blues

Christmas, the season of good cheer, is usually painted in reds and

For all too many people, however, the color winds up blue.

The "Christmas biues" is one of the most widely remarked on but least frequently dealt with psychological phenomena around. Sometimes it seems that nearly everyone has had a touch of it at sometime and, like the rain, it seems to make no distinctions, falling on the just and unjust alike.

GEORGE A. BENSON, a practicing Christian and a practicing psychoenalyst in St. Louis, suggests that part of the reason for the Christmas blues is that the season, in the way it operates in America, sets people up for a let-down.

In his new book, "What To Do When You're Depressed," Augsburg Publishing House, Benson devotes a long chapter to the Christmas blues, including a couple of case histories that could belong to almost anybody.

Benson begins with an insight that most people would acknowledge: "Christmas to many people is almost a commandment to be happy" and that happiness is the "proper" attitude for the season.

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

"The trouble with these 'proper' attitudes," he adds, "is that they tend to interrupt the normal ebb and flow of everyday emotions" and the "manipulating of oneself into a merry atmosphere during Christmas has overgrown its religious dimensions and has become a modern social law.

"SINCE THERE IS very little theological rationale for this forced joy we all feel obliged to express during the Christmas season, we are probably right in concluding that it is largely sustained for economic reasons," he

"We are made to feel that Christmas is a supreme opportunity to become a 'success,' " Benson said, adding that "economically limited people are driven to indebtedness that might take months to pay off in order to avoid the failure in American life, a noor Christmas.

At the root of much of this, Benson said, is the fact that "most of us just don't realize that our Christmas expectations are grounded on childish hopefulness and adolescent romantic-

Benson says he doesn't depreciate either hopefulness or romanticism, but stresses that "during the modern Christmas season, we are driven to conclude that all the hopes and dreams of all the Christmases past can and 'should' be met. We are led to believe that everything is possible and so we are set up for a letdown."

CHRISTMAS, Benson concludes, has ceased to be a symbol, has ceased to condense a variety of feelings and memories into a commonly shared celebration but instead has "become a provacateur of insatiable desire" whether it be material or emotional.

But he says the Christmas blues can usually be overcome "if we are willing to recognize the psychological pressures inherent in the secular Christmas.'

"Christian people have sound theological reasons for joy at Christmas," he said. "But they hesitate to give up the secular Christmas because like all real joy, Christian Christmas joy must be freely shared and allowed to wax and wane.

"Accept it, let it go, and accept it again, but never be trapped into using either secular or misguided religious maneuvers aimed at incapsulating the happiness of Christmas.

"Above all, be aware that Christmas always awakens our most precious hopes. We are very vulnerable at the Christmas season and when people feel vulnerable they are apt to he anxious."

But anxiety we know about can be lived with," he said, and "can act as a catalyst that draws us together."

and save $250, $500, $1,000 or more in income taxes ... every year!

For those employed without pension plan

If you are salaried or a wage earner not covered by a pension plan (other than social security) you should start your own retirement plan. By opening an Individual Retirement Account with Lincoln Federal Savings you can deposit up to $1.500 (or 15% of your income - whichever is less) in a tax-sheltered account with us.

You can claim full amount income tax deductions for your annual deposits; also, you won't have to pay any tax on the interest your Individual Retirement Account earns (available in certificate accounts — six year 7%% certificates effectively pay 8.17% per annum) until the funds are actually paid to you. That will be after retirement, when you'll be in a lower tax bracket.

See how fast your money grows

Note: Table assumes 25% income tax bracket, and figures are based on 74% investment return when you deposit $1,500 every year.

Keogh retirement plans for the self-employed

If you are self-employed — a doctor, lawyer, accountant or tarmer - you can set aside 15% of your annual earned income up to a maximum of $7,500 in a Keogh Self-Employed Retirement Account with Lincoln Federal. The full amount of your annual contribution - up to the maximum permitted by law - can be deducted from your federal income tax. Even the earnings on the contribution are tax free - until after retirement.

For example $7,500 deposited annually in a Lincoln Federal six-year certificate earning 74% compounded daily would earn more than $228,000 in interest alone in 20 years. Principal plus interest would be more than Another way is to accumulate funds in 51/4% passbook account until they reach $1,000 and become eligible for higher interest certificates paying 5.75% to 7.75% depending upon term. Maturities range from 3 months to 6 years.

Lincoln Federal's 71/4% six-year certificate earns an 8.17% annual yield.

Buffalo Grove opens title chase with easy triumph by MIKE KLEIN Allsmiller returned from inter-

It's certain as death follows taxes that Paul Grady would be coaching a very fine Buffalo Grove basketball team even without All-State center candidate Brian Allsmiller.

The Bison, who went home easy 65-41 winners Friday night over Arlington in a Mid-Suburban North opener, have fine starting guards in Mike Ledna and George Bastable.

Tim Stonerook and Fred Heesch are strong rebounders, hard workers and very efficient players with good size.

And the bench provides adequate substitution power.

But happily for Grady and everyone else concerned at Buffalo Grove, there is also 6-foot-8 Allsmiller, a junior giant who carried his team for two seasons.

Alismiller needn't do that anymore, which couldn't have been more obvious as Buffalo Grove defensed Arlington into a 49-21 dungeon through 24 excruciating minutes.

There was complete Bison dominance with crisp passing, a 26-13 rebounding edge and a 30-13 field goals advantage.

En route to a 30-of-47 shooting night, 64 per cent, the Bison held Arlington to just one field goal each in the first and third periods.

But all anyone really cared to ask Grady about afterwards was Allsmiller, the big red-beaded kid with the gangly walk who defies his size by shooting from 20 feet.

Allsmiller shot 18 field goal at-tempts Friday night and made 13 for a game high 26 points plus . . . and get this . . . an astronomical 72 per cent field goal rate.

The Bison cruised to a 34-15 halftime lead with Allsmiller content at eight points as Stonerook had 10 and mission to attempt nine more field goals. And he made all nine.

"I don't think Brian needs to be compared with anybody," Grady said. "Brian's the best basketball player I've seen in my 13 years around here.

"There may have been better rebounders or better defensive players inside, but I don't know where you'll find a better shooter and I mean every night," Grady said.

"You didn't just see a funny thing tonight. He's capable of running 10 or 12 straight shots anytime. I know," said Grady, "I see him every night."

Grady also lauded Allsmiller as "one of the best passers I've seen" and said of him, "I don't know of a more humble kid than Brian."

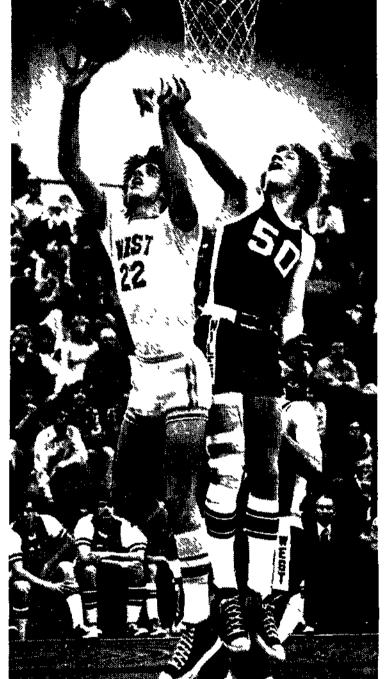

Allsmiller's 13 field goals were four short of his own single game school record. Grady pulled all starters with 4:40 remaining, the Bison leading by 61-25 and Brian having just run nine straight.

It was really no contest from the outset. "Our goal every game is holding the opposition under 45 points," said Grady. "Somehow we'll throw the ball in enough to get 50 "

The Bison led 16-4 after one period when Stonerook had four points, Heesch six, Ledna four and Allsmiller two. All night long, Ledna and Bastable were tremendously patient playmakers. The Bison's longest scoring stretch was 10 straight points during the first period for a 12-2 lead.

They scored eight straight once and put through six unanswered points on three occasions.

The victory was Buffalo Grove's eighth against one defeat. Arlington, whose Cardinals are defending Mid-Suburban North champions, must work to correct the problems of a 2-6

Hawks' 73-68 win over Wright.

A taut defense, spearheaded by Rick McGowan, shut the door on Palatme and their high scoring forward Kevin McKenna Friday night, allowing Wheeling to coast to a 57-41 win over the Pirates in opening North Division action.

The Wildeats backed up their defensive efforts with a strong assault on the hoop sparked by Keith Schildt and swung into the lead to stay in the secand period en route to win No. six in eight tries over-all this winter.

Schildt finished with a game high 23, including three buckets in a row during that second quarter burst that pulled the Wildcats into permanent command. He was supported by 5-10 guard Dave Schultz's hot outside hand.

But the real success behind Wheeling's impressive showing was in their defense. "Rick, in particular, did an outstanding job and in general we were greatly improved defensively over our last outing," explained 'Cat coach Ted Ecker afterwards. "It turned the game around tonight." With McKenna zipping in a dozenpoints, tea of them from the field, the Palatine was up 26-21 when Schildt struck twice from the baseline and then popped in a rebound. That made it 27-26 in favor of the visitors and Schultz added an 18-footer moments later to help forge a 31-29 halftime Wildcat edge.

In the second half, Wheeling's fullcourt press allowed the hosts only three field goals and they were totally shut out over one five minute span while a Wildcat 33-32 lead blossomed into a 45-32 heading. Schildt and Schulz also headed up this rally.

Schultz finished with 18 points. McKenna wound up with 17 while his Pirate team saw their over-all record drop to 3-4.

Huskies win 60-42

by ART MUGALIAN

Hersey scored 13 straight points at the start of the second half, wiping out a nine-point Fremd lead and propelling the Huskies to a 60-42 victory on their home court Friday. It was Hersey's sixth win in eight games and marked a successful Mid-Suburban North debut.

The comeback was led by 6-5 center Tom Burzak, who had been in early foul trouble and managed just two points in the first half Burzak hit seven baskets in the second half, though, and finished the night with 18 points to pace both squads, Fremd, now 4-4 over-all, held a 30-21 margin after two quarters, owing mainly to seven points each from Rick Kolze and Kerry Field and six from Dave Mize. Big $-5 center Paul Gillette did his part by blocking out under the boards and neutralizing Hersey's big men.

"At halftime I told the kids to shoot out of the patterns, board better, and play defense," said Huskie coach Roger Steingraber. "We were getting good shots in the first half, but they weren't going down.''

Hersey's 6-8 Jay McDermott dropped in a short jump shot off the opening second-half tip, and the seige was on. McDermott blocked a Fremd shot - one of three Viking attempts he batted away - and started a fast break with Tom Frye on the receiving end. A moment later Frye drove the lane, drew a foul, and converted a three-point play

It was Frye, a 5-9 junior, who began another fast break just seconds later. McDermott took a perfect pass in stride and crashed through for a driving layup and a 32-30 Hersey advantage.

The Huskies' giants controlled the boards in the second half, too. McDermott finished with 11 rebounds and Burzak had 10.

Hersey's 6-5 Clyde Glass wound up with 13 points, including five in the first half when he and reserve forward Scott Topczewski helped keep the Huskies in the game, Topczewski had six points

The Vikings didn't score until more than four minutes into the third period, when Dale Hallberg put up an offensive rebound. It cut Hersey's lead to 34-32, but McDermott hit a short jumper on a pass from Joe Pusatera and Burzak tallied two straight buckets, one on a pass from Frye and one on an offensive rebound.

Hot meets cold; Niles West clips Maine West, 69-56

by BOB GALLAS

In basketball, when hot meets cold, you can usually count on hot to come out on top.

And that was the case at Maine West Friday night as the coldshooting Warriors couldn't overcome the hot-shooting Niles West Indians and lost, 69-56.

The Warriors could hit from the field at only 33 per cent accuracy while the Indians were hitting at a 59 per cent clip in a game that was closer than the score in-

Despite two long scoring droughts in the second half, the Warriors twice came back to within six or seven points, but couldn't find the firepower needed for a win.

"It was a tough, man-to-man, head-to-head affair like we expected," said Niles coach Billy Schnurr "We felt before the game that we needed a tough, man-to-man defense to cut down their field goal accuracy and we had to cut down their rebounding '

Schnurr's Indians, now 9-1 on the year, were successful in both areas. While holding down the Warriors' field goal accuracy, they completely dominated the boards, especially on offense where they were often getting two or three shots.

The Indians grabbed 36 boards, compared to 18 by Maine West.

Fouls also hampered the Warriors. Maine West's 6-foot-6 center Buddy Doroskin went to the bench with 3 fouls with 5:08 left in the first half, forcing Warrior coach Gaston Freeman to alter his game plan and go to a zone defense from a man-to-man.

By early in the second half, Doroskin and Bill Fininis were playing with four personals Fininis fouled out with 7:42 left in the fourth quarter.

"We didn't want to go to the zone that early," said Freeman. "We could have come close if we had been able to put the ball through the hoop, though," he

'If we had put in a couple of baskets early in the third period that might have turned things around," Freeman said. The Warnors managed only one basket in the first four minutes of the third

Niles' John Bruner led the Indians out to a 39-32 halftime lead with 20 first-quarter points. The Warriors held Bruner to just five points in the second half.

Bob Zuccarini led the Warriors with 22 points, Bruner led the Indians with 25.

The loss snaps a six-game Warrior win streak and puts their record at 6-4 on the year. In the Central Suburban League South division, Maine West is now 4-1, one game behind the Indians who

by DWIGHT ESAU

Schaumburg's Saxons went shopping for their eighth straight victory Friday night, and got the biggest, and rudest, surprise of their season so far.

Rolling Meadows' Mustangs, only mediocre in a 3-4 season, came to play and stunned the Saxons, 71-59. The game wasn't even as close as the score may indicate.

The Mustangs simply had fun outplaying, out-hustling, out-rebounding, out-shooting, and out-defensing the usually potent Saxons.

"I liked our hustle, defense, and attitude, and for the first time this season we had five or more guys all doing the job," said a happy but subdued Coach Bill Weinberg. Doing the job for the suddenly aroused Mustangs was a swarming zone desense led by Steve Dussy and week, and it probably psyched his fourth quarter, led a reasonably effec-Gerry McGill, red-hot streaks of shooting from Noe Nunez and John Carbery, who had 18 points apiece, and plain old bustle — after rebounds. loose balls and Saxons with the bas-

Helping out was a Saxon defense which was almost incredibly relaxed

Nine of the 33 Mustang baskets were unmolested layups.

"Our plan was to front (John) Chmiel, force him to shoot over the back side of our defense, and keep him and their taller players away from the basket as much as possible," said Weinberg. "Mostly it worked, because our boys made it work." He also admitted he played up the "Schaumburg's undefeated" theme all team more than usual. The Mustangs got a slow start, falling behind by 10-6 and 15-12 in the furst quarter as Saxons John McIlraith and Ed Chmiel got inside for several baskets. Nunez, however, kept Meadows in it with five out of six first quarter jump shots, the last two opening up a 21-15 Mustang lead at the

From there, it was downhill for the Saxons and a circus for the Mustangs. Carbery canned two rebound shots, substitute Bill Wissen got two others, and the Meadows defense shut off the Saxons without a basket for nearly seven minutes just before the half.

It was 37-25 at intermission and the lead grew to 61-39 before Weinberg reined in his horses.

Ironically, Ed Chmiel was high scorer for the game with 19, but his fine offensive effort couldn't overcome the team's frequent defensive Rolling Meadows even introduced a new "play" for this game. Nunez twice sneaked up behind a Saxon dribbler, tipped the ball loose, then headed for the Saxon basket. One of his teammates picked up the loose ball and fired it down to him for a cripple.

The Saxons will be back, if they can forget this one. Meadows, on the other hand, may have arrived.

Bulls snap skein as defense stars

John Laskowsky tied his career high of 19 points Friday night and five other players scored in double figures to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 104-91 win over the Los Angeles Lakers. The win snapped a sixgame Bulls' losing streak. Mickey Johnson chipped in 18 points for the Bulls, followed by Norm Van Lier and Jack Marin, each with 14. Bob Love and Tom Boerwinkle added 10 apiece.

It was the third straight loss for Los Angeles and the lowest point production of the season for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who was held to 17 points. Abdul-Jabbar came into the game averaging 29 points. Chicago led 56-43 at the half and put the game out of reach in the third quarter as Johnson led the Bulls with 10 of his 18 points. Chicago built up its biggest lead, $1-57, with less than two minutes

New Mexico's Steve Myer threw a 52-yard touchdown pass to Stanford's Bill Singler with 31 seconds left Friday night to give the Blue a come-from-behind 14-13 victory in the 38th annual Blue-Gray college all-star game. The last-minute score climaxed a fourthperiod comeback by the Blue, unable to cross the 50 until the final Minnesota's Dexter Pride slammed over from the one midway through the final period for the Blue's first touchdown. Boston College's Fred Steinfort kicked both conversions.

Virginia Tech's Phil Rogers leaped over from the two for the Gray's only touchdown and Baylor's Bubba Hicks added field goals from 27 and 40 yards to give the Gray a 13-0 lead in the third

Papa Bear backs officials

The "father" of the National Football League has chastised other club owners and coaches for "thoughtless and irresponsible statements" about NFL officiating. George S. Halas, the owner of the Chicago Bears, president of the National Football Conference and a founder of the NFL, Friday said he was "appalled" at the criticism leveled this season by other club officials at the quality of league officiating.

"I have been, I am sure, a vocal critic of NFL officiating in many games which I coached," Halas said with a straight face. But, he said, "The thoughtless and trresponsible statements made by several of our clubs show a total lack of respect for the integrity of the NFL. "I am appalled that we in the league would make such public outbursts against the very structure of our game." Halas was taking exception with mounting criticism from NFL owners and coaches this season of calls which have affected or even decided the course of key games.

All-rookie backfield for Bears

Twenty-three weeks and 74 departed players since the opening of training camp, the Chicago Bears close their 1975 National Football League season Sunday at New Orleans with eyes focused on next year. Head coach Jack Pardee takes the nucleus of what Bear fans hope will be a league contender in future seasons to the Saints looking for win number four of the year.

The Bears hope to notch that victory with an all-rookie backfield directed by 22-year-old quarterback Bob Avellini and dependent on the legs of 22-year-old Roland Harper and 21-year-old Walter Pay-

Elk Grove dumps Prospect; Hoffman wins

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Elk Grove went to the free throw line eight times inside of three minutes in the fourth quarter and made seven of them to wrestle their first Mid-Suburban League South Division win away from Prospect 65-51 on the Grens' floor Friday night.

The freebies, coupled with Elk Grove's stick 'em defense, turned a 48-47 Elk Grove lead into a 55-47 lead that expanded as the game wound

"Our defense did it when we had to," sald Elk Grove's Bill Parmentier, noting the 16 errors his team forced. "But I've got to give credit to Prospect. They played us as tough as we played them.'

The Knights never led after the secend quarter but early in the final frame they put themselves squarely into the game, after trailing by as many as 12 earlier, when Mike Wood, Chris Etter, Ed Spore and Brad Millar put ten straight points together to trim the Grens' lead to a single point.

"I tell you," said Parmentier, "that Wood and Etter are a great insideoutside combination. They're both excellent ballplayers."

Wood, shooting almost exclusively one step beyond, canned 17 points while Etter was razzing Elk Grove inside for 21 points. Together they scored all but two of the Knights' points in the third quarter.

Elk Grove's Dave Hornacek, though, earned game scoring laurels with 22 points and Joe Parmentier chipped in 19, including a 65-footer at the buzzer for a little extra salt. Hornacek, who also yanked down 12 rebounds, played much of the game in deep fout trouble but dominated the all week on ball control, and the prac- Forest View holding a temporary 8-7 inside defense despite four personals. Parmentier never considered a rest for his center.

"I knew we had to go with our best and he's the best we have," he said. "He did the job just like I knew he Hornacek was belped on the boards by Mark Smith, who had 10 points and two clutch tip-ins on missed free throws, and Mark Sass for a healthy rebounding edge.

Hawks in control

by MIKE GARBUS Coach Jerry Segebrecht had been working his Hoffman Estates Hawks tice paid off with a 58-53 victory over Forest View Friday night.

"We haven't shot well," Segebrecht said of his squad that broke into the win column for the first time in this their first Mid Suburban League season after two defeats.

The Hawks are now 3-6 overall, while the Falcons fell to 0-3 in league action and 1-8 overall.

Hoffman Estates only managed 38 per cent shooting on the Forest View court, but the Hawks took control of the game after intermission, especially on the inside in the more "competitive" way the coach was looking

It took both squads nearly three minutes after the opening tip to find the range and the quarter ended with advantage

The Falcons held the lead until midway through the second stanza, but the Hawks fought back to tie twice before a free throw by semor guard Joe Gajewski gave his mates a lead that was never headed

The visitors expanded the margin to as much as 16 points into the fourth quarter, mixing their inside offense plus free throws. Free throws, in fact, played a big role in Hoffman Estate's point production, as they converted 16 of 25 tries from the line, while the hosts only hit 5 of 13.

The Faicons unleased a full-court press with 7 14 left in the contest to help forge a 21-point period but the strategy got them no closer than eight points as the Hawks used free throws to cruise the rest of the way

Gene Foster amassed 24 points to lead the victors, while guard Tom Lunak came off the bench to tally 20 points for Forest View.

Gymnastics feature at Maine East

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gymnastles Editor ninth annual "Little State better known as the Maine East gymnastics invitational, will be staged in the Demons' gym at 7:00 tonight, drawing a field of 12 of the best leams in the state.

"We think we have the finest invitational every year," said Maine East coach Tom Gardner. "And this year won't be any exception."

The meet's format of one competitor per team on each event puts a premium on accuracy and, as Elk Grove head coach Fred Gaines said, "There is no room for error. One mistake can wipe you out in an event."

Elk Grove is one of four Mid-Suburban League schools entered in the invite and the entire quartet figures to have a chance at winning the entire

Joining the Grens from the MSL will be Hersey, Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Other schools entered include defending state champion Hins-dale Central, Maine West, Maine East, Maine South, Niles East, Oak Park, Glenbrook South, York and last year's champion, Niles West.

West won the team title last year with 50.95 points, nearly all of them accumulated by state all-around champion Bart Conner.

Conner is ineligible this season but he will be an added bonus at the meet Saturday, performing the Olympic complusory routines he needs to master to earn a place on the 1976 United States team in Montreal.

"The format of the meet almost makes it an all-around tournament." Gardner said. "Some teams have one gymnast who is their strongest competitor and they can enter him on each event."

One such team is the Hersey Huskies, who will put Danny Muenz in contention on all events except trampoline. Muenz has been hitting in the high 7.0s during the MSL season and has the potential to win the whole show himself, much like he did when early this season. "Hersey would probably have to be considered the favorite because of Muenz," Gardner admitted. "But there are going to be a lot of fine gymnasts at the meet who will have something to say about that."

Among them is Maine South's Craig Martin, who has clicked consistently in the 8.0 range as the Hawks' top allarounder. Oak Park, with all-arounder Tom Osborne, is another solid Elk Grove, which hit 143.47 in an MSL dual meet Thursday, is counting on Gene Christensen, Matt Damore, Tim Connelly, Tom Balla and Jim Schwartz.

Prospect's chances rest with Doug Zahour, Glen Wilke and Dave Scheible. The Rolling Meadows Mustangs' best bets are Keith Liszewski, Dave Gauger and Dave Bycroft

"The meet last year was extremely Gardner said, "with only about two points separating the winner from the fourth place team. I don't think anyone can equal Niles West's score from last year but I see the same type of close competition again this year."

Viator mistakes fuel 81-45 defeat

by DOUG PALM

Turnovers, turnovers, turnovers. St. Viator, tied early at 6-6, committed 24 miscues in the first half and went on to suffer a nightmarish 81-45 loss to Holy Cross Friday night in an East Suburban Catholic conference outing in River Grove.

The loss dropped the Lions to 2-7 over-all and 1-2 in the ESCC. Holy Cross improved to 3-4 over-all and 2-1 in the conference.

The game started on a positive note as the Lions led on three occasions. Gien Girard, the Lions' 6-foot-9 center, scored on two tips and a short jumper for his team's first six points.

The host Crusaders tied the score at six all at the six minute mark. But that's when the floor gave out beneath the Lieus.

Five turnovers later, the Lions trail-

With Holy Cross in a zone defense, St. Vistor attempted to get the ball in low to Girard who was positioned deep to either side. Errant passing by the Lions was points, either on tips or on close-in moves to the basket. Otherwise, the Holy Cross zone suffocated the Lions' offense. The hosts tallied 12 unapswered points at the outset of the second quarter for a 36-12 margin as bad passing continued to plague the Lions. "We have to be mentally ready to play ball." said coach Ron Cregier.

'Tonight we weren't." "Somehow, we have to get our big men more involved in the offense," said Cregier. "Right now we have all the liabilities of a big team but not of the assets." Following the lead of junior guard

Jack Porter, Holy Cross countered a lone Lion free throw with a 10-point outburst late in the second period to forge the 46-13 lead. St. Viator managed to score the period's final six points to leave the floor trailing by 27, 46-19.

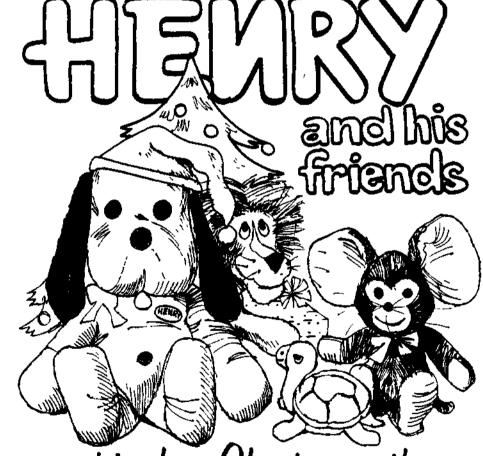

Lions momentarily righted The themselves in the opening minutes of the third quarter by outscoring their opponents 10-6. Turnovers, however, continued to be the Lions' undoing. Three successive whistles led to a Crusaders took advantage of the extra possessions to extend their lead to 37, 66-29 at the end of the third quarter.

Illinois biologists consider 10 sites

The quest for a long-awaited northern lilinois waterfowl refuge was pursued by the public Tuesday night at a meeting organized by officials of the Illinois Dept. of Conservation (IDC) at the student union building on the campus of Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

Tony Dean, director of the IDC, sympathized with more than 100 inter-duck stamp revenue to begin the project and the full allotment, if needed, of $150,000 from the sale of 1976 stamps to be allocated to a northern Illinois refuge. 'We are committed to give one-half of the stamp proceeds to Ducks Unlimited for our 9,000-acre Leaf Lake Project in Saskatchewan, Canada," Dean said. "This area is one of the chief suppliers of Illinois birds and the project would be completed by the nesting season of next year."

Dean outlined the qualifications a northern Illinois refuge location must possess: (1) a site located in prime waterfowl migration corridors to maximize hunter opportunity; (2) a suitable wetland habitat that can be efficiently and effectively managed;

(3) a site that is located within reasonable driving distance from metropolitan northern Illinois communities and (4) a site with sufficient size . . . "not tens of thousands of acres and not 49," he said.

To help facilitate the probe for the ideal location, the IDC organized the Northern Illinois Waterfowl Area Search Committee, an eight-member panel of experts chaired by Dave Alinedinst.

During his turn at the rostrom, Klinedinst developed an aerial slide presentation of 10 sites that the 11/2month old committee has already investigated.

Klinedinst also introduced the results made from a study that showed that waterfowl hunters possess a 'transfer tolerance" or a time limit that they are willing to spend for traveling to and from a site. That distance was designated to be 100 miles or two

He also added that aside from the refuge itself, the adjacent area must also be somewhat attractive to migrating waterfowl, citing the daily feed radius for mallard ducks, for example, is 25 miles.

Acknowledging that a centralized location which would be equidistant from the three major metropolitan areas of the Quad Cities, Rockford and Chicago was virtually non-existent, Klinedinst went on to describe the 10 major locations under three classifications.

The first group appeared under the heading of state land areas where no additional land acquisition would be involved. Other sites required limited land acquisition and the final locations required total land acquisition.

Coinciding with the map accompanying this story, the committee's areas under investigation were:

NO LAND ACQUISITION INVOLVED 1. Des Plaines Conservation Area. Located in Will County, this 320-acre site has natural flooding, adequate water supply, boggy islands estab-lished and public hunting already administered by the county's Waterfowl Management Area which would mean minimal development would be required. There are three additional sites within the 25-mile feeding radius of the mallard duck.

2. Kankakee River State Park. On the Kankakee River, the area already caters to public hunting and has good potential with natural flooding and feeding facilities. At a projected 500 ducks per acre of water, this 80-acre site also rates high consideration.

LIMITED LAND ACQUISITION

3. Grass Lake Conservation Area. Nestled in the Chain O'Lakes area in Lake County, the Fox River provides a natural marsh and a water source of excellent quality.

4. Iroquois Conservation Area. This 1900-acre site already is a traditional waterfowl resting area. The potential refuge would be three miles long by one mile wide and supplements Little Slough in Indiana. The site boasts high, sandy ridges interspersed with oak trees, but would require the construction of wells.

5. Lake DePue-Spring Lake Area. Whether this site in Tazewell County would be accepted by hunters as northern Illinois is questionable. The state owns 25 acres of the location that is diked and flooded. Water supply is available from the Illinois River, but the quality is poor.

6. Bureau Pond Area. This site is adjacent to Hennipen Canal and the Spring Lake-Depue area. The problem is that land acquisition would be required from more than one land-

7. Big Bend Conservation Area. Located at the confluence of the Rock River and Rock Creek, this area is marked by a spring that flows yearround and has a very high potential for development. The hangup, though, is that the site is already designated as an upland game hunting area and might bring opposition. TOTAL LAND ACQUISITION

8. Big Foot Prairie Area. A prime location for migrating Canada geese who have been roosting and feeding here for years, the location is threatened by extinction from increased farming activity.

9. Henry County Area. Located north of Anawan, this project would be more of a reconstruction measure since much of the former marshland has been destroyed by chanelization. The area still boasts a good water

10. Whiteside County Area. Situated along the Mississippi River, 35 miles south of Savanna, the extensive marsh area is flat and carries a water supply of "fairly-high quality."

The feeling is that the IDC will seek maximum utilization of the dollar and lean toward an area that is already state-owned.

A decision on the selection of the northern Illinois refuge is expected in

by JIM COOK Outdoor Editor

EMPHATIC about plans to construct a waterfowl refuge in northern Illinois, director Tony

Dean of the state's department of conservation campaigned to the public at NIU last week.

Illinois hunters rewrote the record books after the final three-day segment of the split shotgun deer season which ended last week in 97 counties.

The new mark being entered into the state's 18-year annals is unofficially 15.469 deer, topping last year's previous best of 14,080.

The second three-day hunt Dec. 12, 13 and 14, produced a harvest of 3,856 whitetails, which, when added to the opening segment total of 11,613, shattered the 1974 record.

Pope County in southern Illinois, registered the best success as 663 days and 128 the final three for a total Deer figures Other counties registering a high deer-kill figure were Jo Daviess with 615. Pike 577. Hancock 543. Adams 498, Union 464, Carroll 414 and John-In addition, two federal refuge areas, open for the first time to deer hunters to control the size of the herd, reported substantial success. Crab Orchard permitted 800 hunters to shoot during both segments and they obliged with 623 deer, 128 of them coming during the final session. Mark Twin, meanwhile, allowed hunting only during the first three-day segment when 124 whitetails were harvested.

Illinois hunters apparently kept their sights on deer as only one accident was reported during the final segment and no fatalities. The only blemish was a youth who was shot in the leg in Hancock County.

That didn't mean that conservation police officers weren't busy, though. Some 707 violations, mostly of the proper dress color variety, were discovered by wardens. But considering that 62,600 permits were issued for the six-day hunt, even that statistic is encouraging.

If you're a native, your roots go back so far no one remembers or cares very much. Asked about genealogy (for such things are of interest to antiquers and history buffs), they may answer "Oh, my folks came from over Carolina way, grammaw used to say, farmed awhile in Tennessee and finally ended up here in southern Illinois."

"WHY?" I PERSIST, "why did they end up here? Here, in particular, I mean." And, surprised by the question, but set to thinking about it, they allow that maybe the farming was good here, the bottomlands rich and fertile, coal fuel was abundant, or maybe winter came on and the settlers just ran out of money and supplies to go on, and so they settled Collecting with Grace Carolyn

The names on the graveyard stones reflect the mostly Anglo-Saxon heritage. People in stores hearing my name don't say "Is that Scandina-vian?" as they would up north.

Perhaps all this is just as well. Mercifully, there are few ethnic jokes, but if there is one told, the butt of the humor is a Kentuckian!

THE BEST THING about the past year to me has been the continuing interest in the column and the resulting letters. I don't know many people who LIKE to write letters, but you do, and I appreciate every one - whether comment, question, compliment or criticism. Most people have enclosed stamped envelopes, which helps a lot when you answer so many.

Some letters have turned into regular correspondences, as together the writer and I try to "bird dog" an elusive answer to an antique puzzle. For instance, Mrs. M. D. Bube and I finally found out more about her unusual balance scale which I mentioned a few weeks ago. Turns out it is a butter scale, manufactured for use in groceries and dairies in the early 1900s. One surprising fact that came to light was the original prices: $12 in 1914 and $56 in 1932. I might have guessed the opposite.

THE SAME WRITER sent me a picture clipped from a magazine ad of a "Miss Liberty Belle" doll, a copy of one originally made in 1926 to commemorate our sesquicentennial. Mrs. Bube has an original given her when her parents attended that celebration in Philadelphia. This is a stuffed muslin doll with hand-screened print and

Copies of the doll are available as a Bicentennial souvenir from a gift house (name on request) at $12.50. I should think one would make a charming and possibly valuable (someday) addition to a doll collection for a little girl who, like Mrs. Bube, will treasure it some 50 years hence.

Thank you for your continuing interest and letters, with black and white pictures and permission to use them always welcome. These are the nicest kind of "Christmas eards" which last all year. God Jul!

Allergic bothered by Christmas itch

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

"Its the season to be itchy - if you're among those allergic to Christmas trees. Yule decorations and or hidden ingredients in tasty holiday snacks.

Some victims of yule sneezes, wheezes, scratches and rashes know from Christmases past to keep hands off the tree and green things festooning the place called home.

But, unfortunately, this yule, new sufferers of Christmas allergy will be caught by surprise.

In an interview, Dr. Doris J. Rapp talked about allergies peculiar to Christmas trimmings and treats. She is a pediatric allergist and associate professor of pediatrics at the State University of New York in Buffalo. She also is author of "Allergies and Your Child" (Drake).

"IT IS NOT UNCOMMON for a parent to put up the Christmas tree and a few hours later the child or even one of the parents gets itchy or develops other allergic symptoms," Dr. Rapp

"Some say their children get sick every Christmas and then recover soon after the tree is taken down. They diagnose the altergy."

The allergist said some persons have trouble as soon as they walk toward an area where Christmas trees are for sale - or in the woods, if out to cut their own.

Oil on the pine needles triggers the allergic reactions in some cases. Just the odor of a pine tree can touch off other cases. "Some patients can tolerate a spruce but not a fir," Dr. Rapp said.

Rashes frequently quickly develop on contact in persons allergic to resins in the pine. "IF YOU KNOW you're allergic to Christmas trees and decorations, the best idea is use artificial trees and trimming," she said. If you don't like that idea, use sprays of tree branches painted white and decorate with tiny lights. Straw wreaths, new on the scene this year. can be spray-painted green for that holiday look.

Dr. Rapp suggested persons allergic to holiday greens take antihistamine before exposure to Christmas trees in public places.

She also recommended those who find Christmas things triggering ellergy check with their doctors about a drug out new this year.

The allergist said the drug, Chromolyn, is a powder that is inhaled before exposure to things linked to allergic reactions. It tends to help prevent symptoms such as asthma attacks.

IF YOUR CHRISTMAS tree allergy is a contact dermatis type - as opposed to the kind touched off by breathing in pine scents - wear heavy gloves when handling the tree and/or greens.

Dr. Rapp also had a holiday caution for persons with food allergies.

The food most often forgotten about at Christmas is egg," she said. "Those with egg allergies sip eggnog or drink rootbeer and the allergic signs appear.

Eggwhite frequently is used to make the froth in rootbeer.

"A second forgotten food is nuts. If you're allergic to peanuts, you dare not take a walnut from a dish of mixed nuts. Some of the peanut oil probably has rubbed off on the other nuts and will get your allergy going."

The persons allergic to nuts must be careful of Christmas cookies, too.

DR. RAPP SAID a lot of cookiemakers put almond extract flavoring or walnut extract flavoring in cookies. "People forget about their allergies, eat one of these cookies and get desperately ill," she said.

"Persons allergic to seafood get in trouble with fishy dips."

The holidays also are a time to take special precautions with asthmatic children. The allergist said:

"During the holidays there is a lot of excitement and the kids are up later and get tired and excited and may be more prone to asthma attacks.

"If the asthma medicine is given the day before Christmas and the day after, it's a good bet there won't be so much wheezing Christmas Day."

Weddings

Vicki Eickenberg-Gerald Ross

Two high school teachers in the area were married at 5 p.m. Nov. 29 in Palatine Presbyterian Church. The bride is the former Vicki Lynn Eickenberg of Palatine and teaches at Maine North High in Des Plaines. Gerald A. Ross, the groom, is a teacher at Palatine High.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Andy Ross of German Valley, Ill., and Vicki is the daughter of the Harry Eickenbergs of Palatine.

Wearing a gown she made herself and a veil made by her mother, Vicki carried a Bible which was part of her mother's bridal attire 25 years ago. With the Bible she carried phalaenopsis, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her gown was fashioned of Lutesong trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her veil, also trimmed in lace, was attached to a cap-type headpiece. FOR THE CANDLELIGHT, double ring ceremony the bride's sister. Marcia, was maid of honor and the groom's brother Dennis was best man. The bridesmaids included Lia Mayer, Mount Prospect, Carol Mabry, Belleville, and Karen Flick, Chillicothe, Ill. They were all gowned identically to the maid of honor in sienna colored chiffon with natural straw hats. They carried yellow and bronze mums and wheat in arm bouquets. Mike Fritz of Hoffman Estates, Bill Bentivegna, Arlington Heights, and Dave Ackerman, Germany Valley, were groomsmen.

A dinner reception followed at Old Orchard Country Club for 150 guests. Afterwards the newlyweds spent a short honeymoon in Rockford, Galena and Dubuque, Iowa, and are now living in an Arlington Heights apartment.

Vicki graduated from Fremd High School and Northern Illinois University. Gerald has both bachelor's and master's degrees from NIU.

Judy Feroe

Gregory Craighead Gregory John Craighead of Wheeling and his bride of Nov. 23, the former Judy Diane Feroe, are making their home in Pullman, Wash., where the bridegroom is a member of the Cougar football coaching staff at Washington State University.

Gregory and Judy are both 1975 graduates of the university, and he is a '69 graduate of Wheeling High School.

His parents, the John B. Craigheads, and family traveled to Washington for the wedding. His grandparents, the Fred Millers of Lake Wales, Fla., also attended.

p.m. ceremony in the United Methodist Church of Kent. She wore a fingertip veil with a pearl and lace headpiece to complete her ensemble.

Former college roommates of the couple were their attendants. Mrs. Tom Vandell was matron of honor. Mrs. John Blair, Alana Llewellyn and Mrs. Jerry Allred were bridesmaids. The groom chose Tim Maher as best man, with Jerry Burkhalter, Jerry Allred and his brother, Bill Craighead, as groomsmen.

The groom s sister, Joanne, served as candlelighter, while Derek Zuroff carried the rings and Stephanie Hollis and Kim Cottier were flower girls.

A dinner dance at the Kent Legion hall followed the service.

Shaw-Massnick

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Craighead

Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Shaw, Arlington Heights. announce the engagement of their daughter Nancy Anne, to Thomas P. Massnick II of Dearborn Heights, Mich., son of Mrs. Thomas P. Massnick and the late Mr. Massnick. The wedding has been set for August '76.

Nancy, a '72 graduate of Hersey High, and her fiance are both seniors at Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis. Nancy majors in history, Thomas in business and political science.

Walker-Rabine

The engagement of Deborah Y. Walker to Andre C. Rabine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rabine, Shrewsbury, Mass., is announced by her parents, Mrs. S. Virginia Walker, Shrewsbury, and Thomas A. Walker, Schaumburg. An early spring wedding is planned.

Both young people are graduates of Shrewsbury High. Deborah also studied at Chicago Circle and Harper College, and is employed by Marshall Field and Co., Woodfield. Andre studled at the University of Miami.

Table tennis can be played on home TV

An electronic table tennis game that can be played on a home television set has been developed by a manufacturer in Los Gatos, Calif.

The original version has been distracting people in taverns and amusement centers for several years. It resembles table tennis, using hand-controlled paddles on the screen and a dot of light to represent the ball.

The new game created by Atari Inc. shots by hitting the ball at specified uses a battery-operated small black box that the manufacturer says can be attached easily to any size color or black and white television set.

Its features include built-in digital scoring.

The company said the speed of the ball increases as volleys increase, and players can put "English" on return angles.

The original coin-operated version was introduced in 1972. Since then, the manufacturer has sold about $40 million dollars worth of video games for public use.

The device retails for about $100.

The doctor says by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Medicine that checks insulin

Could you name the medicine you have mentioned which will block the pepsin-producing nerve to the stomach and backbandedly decrease insulin production. I'm afraid my doctor will plead ignorance if I go to see him empty-handed.

I'm glad to hear your doctor is a skeptic. He should be, in view of all the misinformation available to the public these days from innumerable, unqualified sources. You can take him my column if you

There are two independent bits of information that justify using these medicines in some patients. When too much insulin is released through any mechanism, it will stimulate the production of acld digestive juice and increase the contractions of the stomach. This is well known and if he wants a reference he can read the details in Best and Taylor's eighth edition of "The Psysiological Basis of Medical Practice" (page 1255 and 1357).

This effect of increased amount of insulin that produces low blood glucose (sugar) can lead to hunger pains and acid indigestion. It can be abolished by cutting the vagus nerve that stimulates this action of the stomach. It can also be abolished by giving a drug that blocks the action of the vagus nerve. Your doctor is familiar with these medicines. They belong to the atropine group and include Probanthine, commonly used in treating ulcer patients

YOUR DOCTOR might have to search to find out that stimulation of the vagus nerve can also cause an increased production of insulin from the pancreas. The main regulator of insulin release is the level of the blood glucose. As the blood glucose rises, more insulin is released to lower it back to normal levels. However, in the 11th edition of Samson Wright's Applied Physiology," published by the Oxford University Press, he will find reference to the point that stimulation of the vagus nerve can lead to release of increased amounts of insulin, lowering the blood glucose (page 442).

These interesting observations show that the vagus nerve, hunger contractions, release of acid-digestive juice that affects the stomach and produces ulcer-like symptoms, and low blood glucose are all intertwined and affect each other. Patients with hypoglycemia reactions accompanied with an acid stomach are often helped a great deal with the atropine-like medicines.

Those who want more information on low blood sugar should send in 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your letter to me in care of Suburban Living, P.O. Box 1531, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

presented by Nancy Sweeny.

The Fifth Wheelers meet Sunday at WOODFIELD SISTERHOOD 7:45 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church,

The next meeting for Woodfield Jewish Congregation Sisterhood is Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the synagoguge, 6800 Pinetree Ln., Hanover Park. The program will concern cystic fibrosis, with Steve Schwieger, parent of a child having the disease, showing a film and discussing its aspects.

COOKIE CUTTER ORNAMENTS

After you've cut out your last Christmas cookie, recycle the cutters. The see-through kind will look great hanging from your Christmas tree.

Spread out newspaper. Spray paint the cutters. Decorate the outside edge with glued-on rickrack, sequins, drapery trim, beads, braid, etc. Hang from your tree with a loop of ribbon or yarn.

Another viewpoint on animals to understand people like J. A. Considine who wrote about the "Indians with their mind-boggling attitude toward their sacred cows." As a frequent visitor to India, I'd like readers to know that the so-called "sacred cows" are not free spirits in some bovine paradise. They provide labor,

They work from dawn until long after dark, on very poor food. In assessing the damage done by pets, Considine utterly neglects the fact that, without the aid of many of these animals (particularly cats), even so advanced a nation as the United States could not begin to cope

A reminder to brides

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them,

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story or caption, Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones, contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet - have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the leadline.

The bride who wishes her photo returned may pick it up at the Herald office at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, or send along a self-ad-this news. There is no charge for publishing dressed, stamped envelope.

I'm moved to make one comment. You make excellent points; but even many ardent pet lovers are offended by the many who encourage their dogs or cats to use public places and who often seem to defend wanton damage. Without reference to Considine's strong views, I'm sure you'll agree we also need to respect each other's rights.

Charity too big time to view in hour

by JOAN HANAUE

NEW YORK (UPI) - It may be more blessed to give than to receive, but nobody has a kind word to say for being taken.

Americans donated $25 billion to charity last year. Did they get their money's worth? That's what's under discussion in the NBC documentary "Giving and Getting - The Charity Business," to be presented Monday from 9-10 p.m.

Betty Furness performs crisply and knowledgeably as the on-camera reporter looking into what has become the nation's third largest industry.

That's the main problem with the program - charity is too big a business to handle reasonably in an hour in a show that tries to cover everything from big institutional givers to professional fund raisers to downright charity chiselers.

Even in its excesses, charity overwhelms the hour format.

Much of the audience likely will be most interested in the sections of the program that specifically name some good guys and bad guys and that help the viewer figure out how to rate his favorite charity.

The pitfalls for the unwary giver range from grand larceny to appalling inefficiency.

In Nashville, Tenn., investigative reporter Larry Brinton of the Nashville Banner, appears on the program scandals he uncovered, which resulted in criminal indictments and a tough new law regulating local charities.

Viewers of the NBC documentary also will listen carefully in the future when appealing children come to the door selling sweets as Junior Salesmen of America or some other group that sounds like a boys' club. It isn't a charity, it's a controversial candy business in 32 cities run by an entrepreneur named Gerry Winters, according to NBC.

A bigger problem highlighted by the special is what Miss Furness calls 'well-meaning but wasteful charities" - charities operating so inefficiently that as little as 10 per cent of what they collect actually goes to benefit those they were created to help.

Here the show performs what might be a disservice by naming at random a few charities such as CARE and the Boys' Clubs of America, which rate distinct approval, but admittedly omitting many, many charities equal-

Georgia Kuranz tied the bow on her last Christmas package and hurried to answer the doorbell, pausing midway to adjust the obi on a brown and white print robe worn by her husband, John.

With an approving glance toward the oragami butterfly hovering above a low dining table laid for eight in the Kuranz living room, Georgia opened the front door, bowing gracefully.

"Welcome, most honorable guests," she said, greeting Ida and Ed Brezina, urging them immediately toward a stock of bright oriental robes strategically placed on a foyer bench. "Now, hurry upstairs and dress for dinner," Georgia said, in the flurry of hugs and handshakes common between close friends.

Minutes later in the contemporary kitchen of the Kuranz' Barrington home, Georgia began adriotly slipping cashew crusted chicken breasts in delicate oil just beginning to bubble in a wok. Ida refrigerated a jar of homemade preserved ginger sauce, to later top sundaes, and began arranging lush strawberries and other fresh fruit planned as part of an array of desserts to cap off an authentic Japanese meal.

Again the doorbell sounded. And again, the hostess graciously proferred the dramatic Oriental welcome as Merry and Chuck Lockwood, complete with hors d'oeuvres, ioined the festivities.

The scene for this Japanese gourmet meal was set about 25 years ago when the three couples were all Prospect Heights neighbors and a warm and enduring friendship began.

Through the years, the families drifted from their Prospect Heights neighborhood. But, they have remained close. The wives all enjoy creative cooking and the husbands never refuse a good meal. So why not keep the friendship kindled and satisfy the appetites at the same time?

Their answer to the social dilemma is a gourmet dining club, with meetings often enough to keep abreast of each others activities.

These couples are among the many Northwest suburbanites who enjoy good food and wine and find the togetherness of gourmet dining clubs helps to solidify close friendships.

The gourmet trend appears to be spreading, though the novice need not be intimidated. Local dining groups may consist of many levels of culinary expertise ranging from the Cordon Bleu graduate to a beginner who approaches the experience equipped only with a wire whisk and Bunsen burner.

Not every gourmet "grouple" shares the same motivation.

"We cook and eat for our favorite charity," said Phyllis Miller, Northern Illiois region gourmet dining coordinator for Women's American Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training (ORT).

ORT gourmet groups in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Wheeling and other suburbs hold four dinners each year. Clubs consist of four couples, each of whom donates $4.50 per dinner to ORT.

The Kuranz group tries to get together once a month, Georgia explained as she placed several bottles of saki, a Japanese rice wine, in a pan of water to warm gentle.

"Georgia, what's to nibble, I'm really getting hungry," called Ed-from the comfortable family room where he and the other husbands were immersed in Sunday afternoon football as they sipped from glasses of icy Japanese, beer.

Georgia firmly explained that in the true lapanese fashion, all appetizers would be served at the dinner table. Teasing the men's appetites, she promised shrimp balls, marinated mushrooms, artichokes and radish roses with a special horseradish "dunk."

Informal club rules specify the hostess prepare the main course for each meal with the two other wives asked to bring appetizers and dessert. All dinner planning is done by the hostess, which in this case also included Japanese robes sewn by Georgia for each guest. Well in advance of a dinner, the hostess contacts her two friends with their "food assignments."

ORT dinners are organized in much the same manner. Phyllis said she selects a general theme for the hostesses for each dinner. "This fall we gave them a choice of either Hawaiian or Oriental, but the french meals are always the most interesting and popular," she said.

Hostesses, she said, always prepare the main course. Others are responsible for bringing a combination of other foods.

"One person prepares salad and appetizers, another the bread and side dishes and the third member is in charge of dessert and wine," she said.

For the Kuranz meal, Georgia elected to prepare a main course of crispy cashew chicken and an elegant tempura done at the dinner table with each guest helping himself to tid bits of halibut, green pepper, green beans, cauliflower segments and green onions, which are covered with a light batter and wok cooked on skewers to the individual taste.

Accompaniments included Japanese cucumber salad, rice, soy sauce and a continual flow of the warm saki poured from individual cruets into tiny egg shaped white cups.

Ida's ginger sundaes and the assorted fruits would put the finishing touches to the not soon to be forgotten repast, Georgia promised.

"The men are really good sports about this, but they would surely prefer their martinis, steak and potatoes," Georgia laughed, adding the husbands take over once each year with live Maine lobster as the entree.

"Oh, yes, and they do all the clean-up, dishes and all," Ida pointed out.

Through the eight or nine years the club has had gourmet dinners, the couples have sampled Greek, Hawaiian, Caribbean, German, English and many other ethnic cuisines.

But, one of the most memorable, Ida said is a Pilgrim dinner several years ago. "It was really fun. We wore costumes and none of us had eaten roast goose in a long time, or cornbread," she reminisced.

"It was authentic, all right," Merry said. "Just as we were almost ready to sit down there was a power failure and we just had to rely on candles."

Georgia's Japanese dinner was researched very thoroughly, even down to table conversation, though she confided the inspiration came during a trip to Japan last year. She said she had really planned this dinner with an Austrian theme because the Kuranz family visited that country last fall.

"I brought back a beautiful Austrian costume and a divine dessert recipe, but I (Continued on Page 7)

lust call him Mr. Kotter

As a former member of the "dumb" class at Brooklyn's Erasmus Hall High School, Gabriel "Gabe" Kaplan has come a long way. It hasn't always been easy and eight years certainly wasn't fast for the brown-eyed, 6-foot-1-inch comedian, but Kaplan is now the star of his own half-hour ABC sitcom, "Welcome Back, Kotter."

"I'm very successful now. I'm happy," Kaplan said in a recent interview, while he was appearing at the Mill Run Theater in Niles. "For 29 years 1 was Gabe Kaplan. Now five of six people I meet say, "Mr.

He added, "I don't know how I'll feel in 10 years or so, if it continues though.

The situation at present looks good for a long run for the series. Kaplan said it started slow — about 29 in the ratings — but has climbed in recent weeks as high as 11 and is expected to break into the Top Ten at any time.

Kaplan said he was upset over a network decision to move the series from its current 7:30 p.m. Tuesday slot to 7 p.m. Thursday, starting Jan. 22, opposite "The

"They (network brass) made that decision because they feel we are really strong. I wish they had waited a year until our audience was built up," Kaplan said. "'The Waltons' is an established Top Ten show. If we tie them in the ratings we'll be in good

The 29-year-old comedian readily admits inspiration for the television series and its characters, who make up a large part of his stage routine, came from his own experiences in such a "dumb" class similar to Mr. Kotter's Sweathogs.

"My class was similar although there was no teacher like Kotter," he said. "I thought the idea of a show with urban kids in, an urban school and those kids not being the best students would be success-

The season's new "family hour," into which "Kotter" falls, also irks Kaplan. "Families don't tell their kids to go to bed at 8 p.m. here or 9 p.m. in the East, For that reason it is a complete bust," he said. 'We wanted to do a script about alcoholism. Drugs and anything that has to do with sexual awakening also haven't been allowed."

Kaplan said the show's bad initial reviews were a result of the network showing the third or fourth episode, with all the characters already established, first, "It was a very silly show about a debate. We were just letting our hair down," he said.

But reviews in such major cities as New York, Cincinnati and Los Angeles have brought praise for the series, he said.

Kaplan's career as a comedian began while he was working as a beliboy at a Lakewood, N.I., hotel to rasie money to "The hotel specialized in comedians," e said. "I watched for three months twice week and one night I said, 'Hey, I can do that.' I quit the job two days later and went to New York."

That was at age 21. For the next several years, he not only performed as a comedi-an but he wrote for other comedians, including David Frye.

"I'd always written funny things in school. English composition was my best subject. The rest were pfft," Kaplan said.

Numerous appearances on the "Johnny Carson Show" led to several offers to appear in a television show.

"All the networks were open to a suggestion from me for a television show. CBS offered me a summer show but I turned it down," he said, adding summer show budgets were too low and rough to put together. He also was offered the lead in "Where's the Fire," a comedy staged in a fire station which he turned down only weeks before the network rejected the

The magic in "Welcome Back, Kotter" for ABC was the show's co-originator, Allen Sachs, formerly producer of "Chico and the Man," Kaplan said. Sachs and Kaplan wrote the show out of his nightclub act, which can also be heard on his first record, "Holes and Mellow Rolls" (ABC records).

Other bits on the record contain his

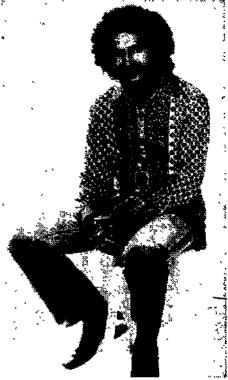

Sullivan, which he considers his best.

"I think it's a funny record," he said, adding it was his idea to put the warning about parental guidance suggested on the record cover. "The record company was against it because they thought it might hurt the sales. I don't want some 8-year-old who likes the show and sees the kids (cover shot from the show) to pick up the album." Kaplan is afraid parents would object to some of the terms used in the

For the future, Kaplan plans a second record about April and some directing and more writing of second season episodes of the show. It has not yet been announced officially that the show will be back, although it is expected to because of the

"One of my ambitions is to do the life of Groucho Marx in a movie," he said. "But no one has been interested yet. I'd like to do movies, act in them — even serious acting, but I'm not good enough now."

The future appears bright for a guy who will be 30 March 31 and says of it, "It doesn't feel terrific."

Starting the dinner table conversation, the hostess explained, "A meal is a very family thing in Japan. It's a time for all of the family members to be together, to share, to participate and to communicate with each other.

"I think that may be why there are very few youth problems in Japan," she said, passing damp, heated towels to her guests, following the first course.

Georgia said her dining group doesn't split costs for each dinner. "Everyone brings something, and we all have our turn as hostess, so it all works out beautifully," she said.

ORT dinners appear "very inexpensive" on the surface. "You find yourself thinking, now where can you find such a superb meal for two for $4.50. But, oh, you wouldn't believe what each of us spends on the production," Phyllis confided. But, after all, it is for a cause near and dear to the hearts of ORT members. "And our appetites don't mind it either," she said.

Want to start your own gourmet group? Really think about it, advise members of both clubs. "Choose your people well, make sure they are really interested and willing to stick with it," suggested Georgia, who also cautions the importance of "being a good sport."

Ruth Black, a former elementary school teacher, who now runs a gournet shop and cooking school in Wheaton says dining clubs are springing up everywhere "like wild mushrooms after a spring rain."

"The best places to find would-be clubbers are at classes taught in most high schools. That's where you are going to find your kindred souls," she said.

Vaccaro to star in CBS series

Brenda Vaccaro will star as a 19th-century frontier teacher who refuses to conform to the schoolmarm image in "Sarah," a new one-hour dramatic series to be presented 7 p.m. Fridays starting Feb. 13 on CBS.

Miss Vaccaro, a three-time Tony Award nominee for her Broadway performances in "Cactus Flower," How Now, Dow Jones" and "The Goodbye People," also turned in acclaimed performances in the films "Midnight Cowboy," "Going Home," "Summertree" and "I Love My Wife," She also starred in the television drama specials "Honor Thy Father" and "Sunshine" on the Network.

"Sarah" is based on a novel by Marian Cockrell, in which an Eastern teacher seeks a new life in a frontier mining town. Contrary to everything the townspeople expect from their schoolmarm, she wages a continual personal battle to maintain her own independence while struggling to build a school in a town where education is considered a frill.

Superman haunts his two creators

by Ira Berkow

For more than 30 years now, Jerry Siegel says he has felt haunted by Superman, his omnipotent and noble creation. Superman's publishers and product merchandisers and television and movie producers have gone on to make hundreds of millions of dollar off him.

Meanwhile, Siegel, who wrote the first Superman stories, and his partner, joe Shuster, who drew them, have reaped from this American Dream nothing but an American Nightmare.

Both Siegel and Shuster, who are 61 years old, have been destitute. In more recent times, they supported themselves by performing odd jobs. Siegel, today, is a mailroom clerk for the State of California. Shuster, legally blind, is taken care of by his bachelor brother in Queens, New

"I feel absolutely haunted whenever I come across a picture of Superman," said ferry Siegel. "I can't bear to look at Superman, I get physically ill. I'm a nervous wreck. It's like I'm looking at a distorted mirror. He looks like a demon, a monster, like Satan with that flowing cloak."

Siegel and Shuster, having lost after 12 years of fighting their most recent courtcase to retain some rights to the Superman character, were in New York City recently to talk with Warner Communications which now owns National Periodicals Pubfications, Inc.

The latter company was the one to whom Siegel and Shuster sold the character of Superman for $130, in an act that was, in effect, the signing away of the copyright for their creation.

Jay Emmett, executive vice president of Warner, says that company plans to give the creators of Superman some kind of annual stipend.

"We haven't heard anything concrete vet." said Siegel. We were offered $12,000 year for each of us for the rest of our lives. But we want something above the subsistence level. Closer to $30,000 a year. Warner says their offer is an act of compassion. But without us, Superman wouldn't exist at all, and there would be several fewer millionaires in this country."

The tale of Siegel and Shuster over the last three decades is sad, harrowing and

They sold their first Superman story in 1938 to "Detective Comics." Other characters in the comic book were Tex Thompson, a cowboy, and Zatara, a magician. The magazine became an instant hit - mostly because of Superman, who has lived while the others died.

The comic book made millions. Siegel and Shuster were each working for $10 a page, and later $15 a page.

They got small raises, and a lot of promises that they would be "taken care of." When they squawked too loudly, they were fired.

They submitted an idea, Superboy, which was accepted. But they were never told about it. They sued and won a judgment. But the money won soon disappeared, since they were finding employment hard. "Doors closed in our faces after the lawsuit," said Siegel. "We were being blackballed."

Jerry Siegel (left) and Joe Shuster created Superman more than 30 years ago. They later sold the rights to the character for $130.

Even in places where, they felt, they were not being blackballed, prospective employers would say, "Oh, you wouldn't be interested in this job." And this was for almost menial jobs.

"Several times I contemplated suicide," said Siegel.

When in 1951 he picked up a paper and read where the publishers of "Superman" had signed a $30 million television deal, Siegel went on a hunger strike to dramatize his plight. He received a "token of our feelings," $250 a month, which was later raised to $135 a week - and then stopped.

He says he begged to come back as a writer for Superman. He was eventually hired as a "free lancer" on the character he originated, with no byline and at rates of 20 years past. When he decided in 1963 to sue for a percentage of Superman merchandising, and syndication, and comic book sales, and eventual movie sales, he was forced to quit the job.

During some of this time, Siegel and Shuster had lost contact. One day, though, Shuster, now a messenger boy, had a delivery at National Periodicals. He was dressed so shabbily, that the publisher gave him money to buy a suit. "Because it was bad for the comic book industry im-

The image - and the social conscience - of the industry is under hard scrutiny now. The apparently crass and cavalier treatment of Siegel and Shuster has created a protest both in the comic-book industry as well as in creative circles gen-

"Yet for all that's happened," said Siegel, "I still love the character of Superman. I feet he's been a good influence throughout the world, and I'm proud that he has meant so much to so many people. And you know, he has hardly changed at all from what we created. He is drawn a little pudgier now - which I don't like - Clark Kent was changed from a newspaperman to a television newscaster.

"But Superman still stands for truth, justice and the American Way. Yet Joe and I have been deceived, treated unjustly and persecuted. I pray that isn't the American Way, If it is, I feel sorry for America."

The society is at the south end of Lincoln Park, Clark Street and North Avenue, Chicago.

Patriotic drawings by Joseph Boggs Beale now on display at Chicago Public Library

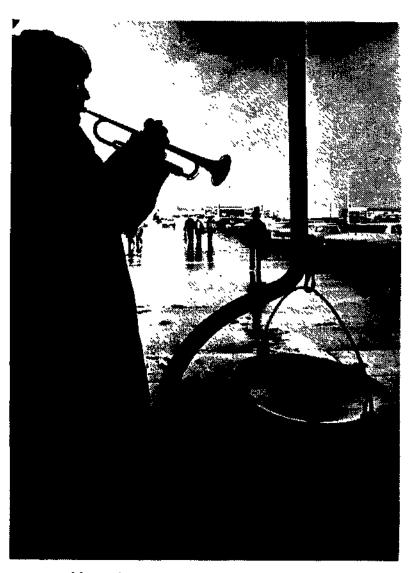

"Star-Spangled History," drawings by Joseph Boggs Beale (1841-1926), are on display at the Chicago Public Library, 78 E. Washington, until Jan. 16.

The selection is part of Beale's Americana collection of 850 original watercolors. Beale was a parade-loving 19th century artist who captured the patriotism of American life in his watercolors. A local firm turned them into lantern slides, which a pre-motion picture generation considered just short of magic. Most of the drawings were designed to complement patriotic songs and poems continuous slide show based on Beale's watercolors will be shown during the exhibition. The slide show is accompanied by a narrative and popular 19th century music.

The glutering eyes of small children glow ablaze with excitement.

This will be the night of all nights, one for pushing against cold windows like little soldiers. It's coming so close. Why, Wednesday's the night!

Santa must be ready to pack all his bags, load that great sleigh and tell Rudolph, "Away!" Into the sky, Claus will soar higher and higher, a speck of great fortune for his children below. While far down on earth, in the many warm houses, little hearts pound hard as small faces press onward.

"Mommy, oh Mommy!" the children might cry. "Which way is north, for I don't see the sleigh?"

They'll sit quiet for hours and hours without end, thinking they've seen him over and over again. But the old man it wasn't, just a star or a plane

"Mommy, oh Mommy!" the children might cry. "How do we know that Santa is coming our way?"

They vow to stay up and watch through the night. But soon even the brightest eyes must close very tight.

And then Santa will shout at Rudolph, "C'mon boy! Let's go!"

And it's Christmas again.

There are presents and cards, ribbons and bows, trees of all size est surprises. It's the best of end of a year.

Perhaps it's the memory at a window watching for Or even remembering moved far away, leaving behind her older brother who's prouder than most, plus two parents who've tried very hard and given so much.

Indeed, it's the birth of young Jesus and prayer in His house. Or making an offering for someone in need.

It's going downtown with Mom and Dad to look in the stores, walk on a street called the Marvelous Mile and watch the cold people all bundled up tight.

It's Salvation Army workers standing on street corners, ringing a bell and asking for help. Or remembering a child who doesn't have any home.

it's saving a prayer for a friend who's been ill. Or doing something just a little special for friends who have foved ones recently gone from the world.

Christmas is music and church bells in the air, it's giving and caring. And Christmas is loving.

But when you are small, it's Santa Claus who makes Christmas so nice. It's waiting and watching until heavy eyes draw quite tight. It's leaving cookies and milk in hopes the old man might stop for a snack.

He's coming Wednesday, when all the children are asleep. And try as they might, they won't be awake.

For Santa is Christmas when you are very small. You know that he's there, You just don't know where.

But he's there. He really is.

Christmas spirit comes in packages of every size.

Hutton's life leaves no time for wives, pets

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Irm Hutton has been divorced three years and, like Ellery Queen whom he portrays weekly on television, he aims to stay that Hutton moved onto the ramshackle General Service Studios lot at the beginning of the season, taking over Lucille Ball's old bungalow and making it his temporary home.

There are few personal touches in the converted dressing room. But the location has a great advantage over a home in Beverly Hills or Bel Air. It's close. It lim need do is walk 50 yards each morning to the stage where the NBC-TV series is filmed.

But the actor does more than that. He arises daily at 5:30 for a three-mile jog around West Holly-wood, wearing a pedometer around his ankle to click off the distance covered.

Back in the bungalow he fills a blender with three egg yolks, wheat germ, honey, crushed almonds, certified raw milk purchased the night before, and homogenizes the concoction. He finds the mixture palatable and a boon to good health.

It is difficult to argue with success. Jim is 6-feet-4 and weighs 195 muscled pounds.

He interrupts his 11-hour day on the set for a funch of steak and cottage cheese. Almost every night after work he retires to a favorite steak house for a martini, broiled sirloin and salad.

Then it's back to the bungalow for soft background music while he pores over his script for the next day's work. His metabolism is such that Hutton functions best on eight hours sleep

His routine, clearly, leaves little room for a wife. Hutton is so busy he seldom visits his furnished, single-bedroom apartment in Beverly Hills where his favorite possession is an excellent print of Rem-brandt's Man in the Golden Helmet. He also treas-ures a baroque framed photograph of his grand-mother whom he describes as a tower of Irish strength.

He is a terrible cook and refuses to get near the kitchen except to fix a rare plate of spaghetti.

On weekends he dates a variety of pretty young things, occasionally convincing them to cook dinner in his bungalow. If a girlfriend gets serious, Jim

Hutton collects nothing and won't own pets for fear they may tie him down. He's been married and divorced twice, which may account for a lack of extravagance in his lifestyle.

His first wife moved to the San Francisco Bay region recently from Connecticut where she had been rearing the couple's son, Tim, 15, and daughter, Heidi, 16. Last summer Tim spent most of his vacation with Jim at the bungalow.

The actor was delighted to have the opportunity to re-establish close ties with his youngsters.

Jim is a sports enthusiast, rarely missing Rams, USC and UCLA football games. He also is a basketball fan. He and young Tim attended as many sports events as his schedule allowed.

Among Hutton's close friends are basketball players Jerry West, Walt Frazier and Elgin Baylor, along with football stars Merlin Olsen and Carl

Jim is the father of a daughter, Punch, 4, by his second marriage. On several occasions this year all three of his offspring spent the day with their proud father. He was delighted at the maternal instincts displayed by Heidi for her little half-sister.

If Hutton is a haberdasher's delight on his weekly show it's because Ellery Queen reflects his own tastes in wardrobe.

Hutton pleaded with the producers not to make Queen a fop. They gave him carte blanche in selecting a wardrobe. He headed for Brooks Bros. to avoid trendy styles, settling for true blue conservative elegance. He particularly likes wearing sweaters with shirt collars protruding at the neck.

The hat and boots were a departure for Queen, but a nifty touch in Hutton's mind.

Hutton recently completed the script for a prospective television series dealing with the travails of a process server, a situation comedy he'd like to do if and when "Ellery Queen" leaves the air.

Lec Majors

On a recent "Six Million Dollar Man" episode, Steve Austin (Lee Majors) played football. I would like to know if he ever played football.

You're correct. Lee was a star athlete in high school and also a member of the Kentucky All-State Football team. He won an athletic scholarship to the University of Indiana. During his first year, however, an injury kept ee out of competition for three years. He transferred to Kentucky State College for his senior year and graduated with teaching credentials.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress and President Ford Friday agreed on a compromise tax cut bill containing a vague promise by the lawmakers to hold down government spending.

Ford said he would sign the bill.

The compromise, achieved only minutes before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, meant withholding taxes will not go up in January but will instead continue at the reduced levels the 1975 tax cut provided last spring.

Over-all, the bill goes beyond this year's cuts and will mean a slight reduction in income taxes next year for most taxpayers.

After a day-long struggle involving Ford and Democratic leaders from both the House and Senate, Senate leaders agreed to accept the House version of language promising to cut the 1977 budget by the same amount as any future tax cuts. The House version was watered down somewhat from the Senate's more specific promise to cut "dollar for dollar."

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in debate that the House language amounted to as firm a commitment to cut spending as the language of the earlier Senate hill.

The apparent compromise was a dramatic reversal from the hard headed position both Ford and the Democrats took less than 24 hours earlier when it appeared that Congress would go home for Christmas and allow tax cuts to expire on Jan. 1.

Except for the watered down spending language, short of what Ford originally demanded, the bill was exactly the same as the one he vetoed on Wednesday.

Ford earlier told the Senate he would accept its version of the spending language, which was attached to the tax bill, 82 to 0. The bill itself passed 73 to 7.

Later, when angry House Democrats changed some of the wording of the Senate pledge, House GOP leader John Rhodes said Ford would prefer the Senate version. But Rhodes did not say that Ford would veto the House version.

"The President does prefer the Senate version," Rhodes said. "I find no great fault in either one of them."

The House then passed the bill overwhelmingly with heavy GOP support on a vote of 372 to 10.

Ford has consistently said he would not sign any tax cut bill that did not (Continued on Page 3)

Becky really makes the day

MERRY CHRISTMAS, Becky Goldstein. In her Hoffman Estates home for away from her native Vietnem, Becky will spend her first Christmas

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all, Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name, a new life - months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war.

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings in a longshot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian child and adopt her.

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture, Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her," Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to hide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girlfriends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed.

"But she's not having any problems at all adjusting," Mrs. Goldstein said. "She can read ("a little bit." Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people, which is one of the things we were concerned about at first.' Becky has learned from her friends, her mother said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine," Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them apart," she said.

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Viet-

Garage, parking deck construction endorsed

Des Plaines officials will recommend that the city spend $435,000 for construction of a police garage and parking deck adjacent to the Civic Center, 1420 Miner St.

The council's buildings, grounds and parking lots committee will make the recommendation to the full city council in January.

Submitting the low bid for major construction was C. A. Tharnstrom and Co., Skokie, with $410,763. An additional $24,645 would be paid to Holmes and Fox, a Des Plaines architectural firm, if the council accepts the firm's bid.

THE CONTRACTORS' bid and the architectural fees for the garage and parking deck put the cost of the project about $65,000 under an estimate made by the city's engineering department. The project was bid on by eight general contractors, seven plumbing con-air conditioning contractors and eight electrical contractors.

The plan favored by the committee is the most costly of four projects bid on. The city also had advertised for bids on three scaled-down versions of the project.

The L-shaped structure to be recommended to the city council is designed to house 27 police cars and provide 81 parking spaces.

CITY OFFICIALS have debated the parking question for the Civic Center for several years, and have failed to agree on a plan. Acceptance of the committee's recommendation by the full council is uncertain.

Some aldermen have argued the cost of the police garage and parking deck is too expensive for the number of spaces that would be provided. There also is disagreement over whether the old city hall should be torn down to provide additional parktractors, five heating, ventilation and ing for the Civic Center.

Several city officials have said the city is in violation of its own ordinance because it does not provide enough parking spaces at the Civic

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday.

The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7,000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it. They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday, would be "expedited looking toward

by BILL HILL

The quiet of Keith Mitchell's room at Northwest Community Hospital was broken when the phone rang. Keith's mother, Helen, answered it.

"Hello, Mrs. Mitchell. How are you?" The caller was actor James Cagney, Keith's favorite movie star.

When she held the phone to Kelth's ear he opened his eyes. "I don't know what was said. We'll never know," she said.

KEITH MITCHELL is a sick boy. He developed a rare form of brain cancer 16 months ago. Now the 14-year-old Arlington Heights youth lies in a semicoma. When the man whom he has impersonated for many years called, he could only listen.

"Even as sick as he has been the past year Keith has still always Impersonated James Cagney," Mrs. Mitchell said. "He hasn't been able to talk for a couple months but he'd still go through the motions. Until two weeks ago.

"He always got a laugh out of everybody.

The call was initiated by "a friend" from Arlington Heights who called the secretary of radio personality Wally Phillips to tell of Keith's love for Cagney. Phillips' secretary contacted Cagney's agent a few weeks ago with the idea but the actor had been gone until Thursday. Even then Cagney was traveling but was in contact with his agent during a half-hour train delay and was told of Keith's condition.

"MR. CAGNEY WAS very, very pleasant," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I'm only sorry he didn't do it a couple months ago so Keith could have done his act for him. He was great at it."

After talking to Keith for almost five minutes, Cagney spoke again with Mrs. Mitchell. "Give him a big hug and kiss for me," he said.

"After the call I asked Keith if he knew that he had just talked with James Cagney. He shook his head yes," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"I was so overwhelmed I started to cry. I'd love to know what

Dist. 62 officials get 9% increases

by JUDY JOBBITT

Des Plaines Dist. 62 has released its 1975-76 administrators' salaries, which show top-level administrators and principals receiving an average increase of 9.26 per cent.

Supt. Eric Sahlberg received an 11 per cent increase, which raised his annual salary from $36,000 to $40,000. Other top-level administrators received salary increases ranging from 6.6 to 10.88 per cent.

Principals in the district received salary increases ranging from 3.87 per cent to 12 per cent.

Administrators receiving increases include: Robert Cowell, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, from $30,500 to $32,500; Robert Reinke, assistant to the superintendent and board secretary, from $28,000 to $31,041; Harry Eschel, director of special services, from $27,000 to $29,932; Harold Brieschke, director of business services, from $25,800 to $28,602; Richard Ruffolo, director of instructional resources, from $24,500 to $27,000.

PRINCIPALS RECEIVING increasinclude: Mason Aldrich, West School, from $23,920 to $25,835; Glen Helms, Algonquin Junior High School, ADMINISTRATORS' salaries were approved at the December 1 board meeting but figures were not released immediately. The teachers' two-year contract, also approved at the meeting, raises the base pay for new teachers with no experience from $9,350 to $10,000, a 7 per cent increase. All other teachers received a 6.5 per cent raise this year in addition to the average 2.9 per cent increase for an extra year's experience.

Before releasing any district employes' salaries, the district requires that a dated letter be submitted to the administration specifying which salaries are requested. The district requires 24-hour notice from any individual requesting this information.

The board's policy committee Jan. 7 also will review the current policies and procedures on releasing records and information to the public at a public meeting.

Board president Kathryn Sciez directed the committee to review the policies at Monday's board meeting in response to recent criticisms that officials have refused to release public information.

Public aid ranks down in October

The number of persons who received public aid from Maine Township in October was down 37.4 per cent from the same period last year.

Maine Township Supervisor James J. Dowd said 184 persons received public assistance during October, compared to 294 recorded in the same month last year. The number of cases also dropped from 126 to 104, down 16.5 per cent.

The October figures also were the lowest since June, when 152 persons qualified, and is the second month this year that fewer than 200 persons received aid. The highest month was March when 417 persons received assistance.

Dowd said the decline in the number of persons receiving public aid indicates the continuation of a stabilizing trend. He said he hopes the trend will develop into a decline in demand for public assistance funds, which would indicate a recovering economy.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress and President Ford Friday agreed on a compromise tax cut bill containing a vague promise by the lawmakers to hold down government spending.

Ford said he would sign the bill. The compromise, achieved only minutes before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, meant withholding taxes will not go up in January but will instead continue at the reduced levels the 1975 tax cut provided last spring.

Over-all, the bill goes beyond this year's cuts and will mean a slight reduction in income taxes next year for most taxpayers.

After a day-long struggle involving Ford and Democratic leaders from both the House and Senate, Senate leaders agreed to accept the House version of language promising to cut the 1977 budget by the same amount as any future tax cuts. The House ver- amounted to as firm a commitment to sion was watered down somewhat from the Senate's more specific promise to cut "dollar for dollar."

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican lender Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in that the House language cut spending as the language of the earlier Senate bill.

The apparent compromise was a dramatic reversal from the hard headed position both Ford and the Democrats took less than 24 hours earlier when it appeared that Congress would go home for Christmas and allow tax cuts to expire on Jan. 1.

Except for the watered down spending language, short of what Ford originally demanded, the bill was exactly the same as the one he vetoed on Wednesday.

Ford earlier told the Senate he would accept its version of the spending language, which was attached to the tax bill, 82 to 0. The bill itself passed 73 to 7.

Later, when angry House Democrats changed some of the wording of the Senate pledge, House GOP leader John Rhodes said Ford would prefer the Senate version. But Rhodes did not say that Ford would veto the House version.

"The President does prefer the Senate version," Rhodes said, "I find no great fault in either one of them."

The House then passed the bill overwhelmingly with heavy GOP support on a vote of 372 to 10.

Ford has consistently said he would not sign any tax cut bill that did not (Continued on Page 3)

Becky really makes the day

MERRY CHRISTMAS, Becky Goldstein. In her Hoffman Estates home far away from her native Vietnam, Becky will spend her first Christmas

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all, Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name. a new life - months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war.

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings in a longshot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture. Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her," Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to hide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girlfriends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed.

"But she's not having any problems at all adjusting," Mrs. Goldstein said. "She can read ("a little bit." Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people. which is one of the things we were concerned about at first."

Becky has learned from her friends, her mother

said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine," Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids, that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Viet-

For now, though, the Goldsteins are preparing for

For not working hard enough

Horcher urges cutting some police salaries

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has proposed cutting the salaries of police officers who he feels aren't working hard enough.

Horcher said he will make the proposal to village officials in an effort to prod policemen "who aren't carrying their weight."

The police chief would not elaborate on the standards to be used in judging an officer's performance, but said the number of traffic tickets issued would be a factor.

"HOW MUCH MONEY would your paper keep paying you if you didn't do a day's work," he told a Herald re-

Horcher's announcement about cutting salaries followed his recommendation to deny a normally automatic pay raise to a Wheeling policeman

Patrolman Frank Murphy, 24, was not granted a longevity pay increase because of what was called a "poor work record." Horcher said the number of traffic tickets Murphy wrote during the review period "was a factor among other reasons." He would not disclose other reasons for the recommendation to deny, calling them "in-

"A sample study of his performance indicated a poor work record," Horcher said. "Three policemen were up for slep increases. Two were approved, and one was turned down."

MURPHY HAS been on the force since Jan. 2, 1973, and was eligible for the pay increase based on the number of years services. He said he will appeal Horcher's recommendation through the department's grievance procedure

Horcher has been taking a hard line on department efficiency since a study revealed some policemen were issuing as few as five traffic tickets in a six-month period. Other officers were issuing between 50 and 86 tickets during the same period.

The police chief said the number of tickets issued is a good indication of how hard policemen are working, but denied there is a department quota

The chief also posted a memorandum recently citing Northwestern University Traffic Institute statistics indicating policemen should issue one ticket an hour. The memo raised charges that Horcher was asking officers to step up ticket writing.

United jets preparation starts today

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday. The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7,000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it. They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday, would be "expedited looking toward

Disciplinary haircut gets parental ire

At least one parent is upset by the action of the pastor of St. Mary's School, Buffalo Grove, who gave haircuts to boys so the styles would conform to school dress codes.

Mrs. Donald Scott said the Rev. Donald J. Duffy cut the boys' hair in the kitchen of the school last Monday and parents were not consulted or warned of the disciplinary action for lengthy hair styles.

Mrs. Scott said teachers were upset by the incident and tried to restyle some of the boys' hair.

Father Duffy said the dress code. which is printed in the parent's handbook, states that a boy's hair shall not be longer than the top of his collar. He said a general warning had been issued to parents whose sons did not comply with the code.

"I feel that this is a matter that should be handled within the school," sald Father Duffy, who said he could not understand the interest in "a classroom disturbance in a particular school." St. Mary's is "not a public institution," he said.

'Hey you guys...' Only 14, his favorite is Cagney

by BILL HILL

The quiet of Keith Mitchell's room at Northwest Community Hospital was broken when the phone rang. Keith's mother, Helen, answered it.

"Hello, Mrs. Mitchell. How are you?" The caller was actor James Cagney, Keith's favorite movie star.

When she held the phone to Keith's ear he opened his eyes. "I don't know what was said. We'll never know." she said.

KEITH MITCHELL is a sick boy. He developed a rare form of brain cancer 16 months ago. Now the 14-year-old Arlington Heights youth lies in a semicoma. When the man whom he has impersonated for many years called, he could only listen.

"Even as sick as he has been the past year Keith has still always impersonated James Cagney," Mrs. Mitchell said. "He hasn't been able to talk for a couple months but he'd still go through the motions. Until two weeks ago.

"He always got a laugh out of everybody.

The call was initiated by "a friend" from Arlington Heights who called the secretary of radio personality Wally Phillips to tell of Keith's love for Cagney. Phillips' secretary contacted Cagney's agent a few weeks ago with the idea but the actor had been gone until Thursday. Even then Cagney was traveling but was in contact with his agent during a half-hour train delay and was told of Keith's condition. "MR. CAGNEY WAS very, very pleasant," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I'm only sorry he didn't do it a couple months ago so Keith could have done his act for him. He was great at it." After talking to Keith for almost five minutes, Cagney spoke again with Mrs. Mitchell. "Give him a big hug and kiss for me," he said.

"After the call I asked Keith if he knew that he had just talked with James Cagney. He shook his head yes," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"I was so overwhelmed I started to cry. I'd love to know what

said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine." Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them apart," she said.

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Viet-

Manager begins work on 1976-77 village budget

Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Daniel recommendations for board consid-T. Larson is taking the first steps in drafting the 1976-77 municipal budget. which he hopes to present to the board of trustees by the second week

No figures have been projected for the budget. "We're still in the process of developing revenue projections," Larson said. He added that approximate figures will not be calculated until late February, when the village assesses the spring building season.

Trustees are in the midst of reviewing the proposed capital improvement program for the next fiscal year. The program is part of a five-year projection for streets, lighting, sidewalks, water and sewer systems and other

LARSON SAID he hopes the program, which will be reviewed Monday, will be approved by the board by mid-January.

Larson also will present his salary eration for approval by late January or early February. Finance officials will be able to start preparing the budget during the latter part of February when the projected annual report is due. The report covers the first nine months of financial activity and projects expenses for the remaining three months of the fiscal year, Larson said.

The projected annual report will contain estimated revenue, including taxes from new residential and commercial developments.

LARSON ALSO will be making recommendations on specific spending, such as training programs, hiring employes and purchasing equipment The report will note what programs and services the village has provided during the current fiscal year.

Last year a $4.5 million village operating budget was approved, and included an 8.5 per cent cost-of-living increase for all village employes.

Larson said projections for 1975-76 spending has been fairly accurate and that the village has been working within the budget through seven months of the fiscal year.

Hours on Saturday will be from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.; and on Sunday, from 1 to 5 p.m.

United jets preparation starts today

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday. The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7,000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights -including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday, would be "expedited looking toward

Lake County Board from transferring jurisdiction over the county museum to the forest preserve district, forest preserve commissioners learned Thursday.

Board member Janet Morrison, Waukegan, explained why the transfer may be illegal: The county must own the museum's artifacts before it can levy a museum tax, and the forest preserve district cannot legally levy the museum tax now collected by the county board.

Forest Preserve Atty. Julius Adier said he believes the Illinois Constitution allows the transfer under its provision for governmental cooperation. He added, however, that the state's attorney's opinion might be needed.

A MOTION TO transfer museum jurisdiction was deferred until the next forest district meeting.

While the county and forest preserve boards have the same members, the museum transfer was suggested to simplify operations and save money.

According to board member Stanley Pekot. Waukegan, money could be saved by making use of the forest preserve carpentry shop at Lake Wood and by combining security measures. Blds will be taken in February for a

'Hey you guys...' Only 14, his favorite star is Cagney

The quiet of Keith Mitchell's room at Northwest Community Hospital was broken when the phone rang. Keith's mother, Helen, answered it.

"Hello, Mrs. Mitchell. How are you?" The caller was actor James Cagney, Keith's favorite

When she held the phone to Keith's ear he opened his eyes. "I don't know what was said. We'll never know," she said.

Disciplinary haircut sparks parent anger

At least one parent is upset by the action of the pastor of St. Mary's School, Buffalo Grove, who gave haircuts to boys so the styles would conform to school dress codes.

Mrs. Donald Scott said the Rev. Donald J. Duffy cut the boys' hair in the kitchen of the school last Monday and parents were not consulted or warned of the disciplinary action for lengthy hair styles.

Mrs. Scott said teachers were upset by the incident and tried to restyle some of the boys' hair.

Father Duffy said the dress code, which is printed in the parent's handbook, states that a boy's hair shall not be longer than the top of his collar. He said a general warning had been issued to parents whose sons did not comply with the code.

"I feel that this is a matter that should be handled within the school." said Father Duffy, who said he could not understand the interest in "a classroom disturbance in a particular school." St. Mary's is "not a public institution," he said.

Closets full? - try a want-ad

by DON PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress and President Ford Friday agreed on a compromise tax cut bill containing a vague promise by the lawmakers to hold down government spending.

Ford sald he would sign the bill.

The compromise, achieved only minutes before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, meant withholding taxes will not go up in January but will instead continue at the reduced levels the 1975 tax cut as any future tax cuts. The House verprovided last spring.

Over-all, the bill goes beyond this year's cuts and will mean a slight reduction in income taxes next year for most taxpayers.

After a day-long struggle involving Ford and Democratic leaders from both the House and Senate, Senate leaders agreed to accept the House version of language promising to cut the 1977 budget by the same amount

sion was watered down somewhat from the Senate's more specific promise to cut "dollar for dollar."

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in debate that the House language cut spending as the language of the earlier Senate bill.

The apparent compromise was a dramatic reversal from the hard headed position both Ford and the Democrats took less than 24 hours earlier when it appeared that Congress would go home for Christmas and allow tax cuts to expire on Jan. 1. Except for the watered down spending language, short of what Ford orig-amounted to as firm a commitment to inally demanded, the bill was exactly the same as the one he vetoed on

> Ford earlier told the Senate he would accept its version of the spending language, which was attached to the tax bill, 82 to 0. The bill itself passed 73 to 7.

> Later, when angry House Democrats changed some of the wording of the Senate pledge, House GOP leader John Rhodes said Ford would prefer the Senate version. But Rhodes did not say that Ford would veto the House version.

"The President does prefer the Senate version," Rhodes said. "I find no great fault in either one of them."

The House then passed the bill overwhelmingly with heavy GOP support on a vote of 372 to 10.

Ford has consistently said he would not sign any tax cut bill that did not (Continued on Page 3)

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all, Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name, a new life - months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings in a longshot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian child and adopt her.

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture. Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her." Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to bide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girlfriends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed.

"But she's not having any problems at all adjusting," Mrs. Goldstein said. "She can read ("a little bit," Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people, which is one of the things we were concerned about at first."

Becky has learned from her friends, her mother

said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine." Mrs. Goldstein said, "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them apart," she said.

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Viet-

Dismal outlook for schools

Next 5 years in Dist. 54 to include higher taxes

by PAM BIGFORD

A five-year financial forecast for Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 shows a rapidly declining ability for the district to make ends meet and a good chance for higher taxes for residents.

The Dist. 54 Board of Education previewed the five-year forecast at a board meeting Thursday. The board discussed the possibility of scheduling a tax rate increase referendum for voter approval Feb. 14, but deferred action until the Jan. 45 board meet-

The administration also recommended scheduling a $350,000 construction referendum to build a new administration center for the same

SUPT. WAYNE Schaible urged the board to set a tax referendum for. Feb. 14, saying "If we wait too long to make these recommendations to the public, we're going to end up like some of our neighbors - millions of dollars in the hole."

District residents presently are taxed $1.98 per $100 equalized assessed valuation of their homes for the district's education and operations funds. The maximum the district can tax residents without losing some state aid is $3.55 for the funds combined, administrators said.

The administration has not yet recommended a specific amount to increase the tax rate, but officials said it will be "nowhere near the maximum."

A Dist. 54 resident with a home assessed at $10,000 now pays about $198 a year in taxes for the education and operations funds. If the rate is increased by 25 cents, the same resident would pay about $223. If the rate is raised 50 cents, about $248 would be

THE LAST TAX rate increase in Dist. 54 was in 1967, when the rate was increased 33 cents from $1.65 to $1.98 for the education and operations

Officials said a tax rate increase has not been necessary since 1967 because the state aid formula "vastly increased" the district's income and because industry and homeowners have continued to move into the dis-

However, rising inflationary costs have sent the cost of education per pupil "spiraling upward," school officials said.

The district's cost per pupil in 1967 was $513; today it is $1,100. Class size in 1967 was about 30 pupils while the average class today numbers 25, calling for additional staff.

THE ADMINISTRATION also recommended the board ask voters to approve the $350,000 construction referendum to supplement the district's presently inadequate funds to build a n e w administration center on Schaumburg Road near Schaumburg

Relocation of residents next

County, trailer park in accord on sale

by TOM VON MALDER

An out-of-court settlement allowing the Cook County Forest Preserve District to purchase the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park was reached Friday between the mobile park owner and district officials.

The settlement could save the state close to $200,000 in material and labor costs if the park's residents can be relocated before the area is flooded as part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed project.

James A. Ronan, Forest Preserve attorney, said, "We reached an agreement on the price and a court order will give the forest preserve title to the land." He would not disclose the amount of the settlement.

THE SETTLEMENT must be approved by Forest Preserve commissioners, tentatively at the Jan. 5 meeting. Money must be paid and the title conveyed before the relocation of the residents can begin.

Ronan said it would take about three months to relocate the 750 residents of the 11.6-acre park, 941 Higgins Rd.

The residents have to be moved by June or July at the latest if the state is to save the majority of the $200,000 for flood-control equipment and installation of pumps for the trailer park area, said James Takahashi, engineer of construction, Illinois Dept. of Transportation, division of Water which will be used to protect the park from flooding if still inhabited when the main dam is completed. Labor to install the pumps and build a levee around the property would bring the total cost to about $200,000.

THE STATE doesn't "want to cancel the order," Takahashi said, because the residents may not be moved soon enough and protection would still

If the residents are moved in time,

Takahashi said, "I'm pretty sure we can resell most of the equipment."

Work on the levee and pumps is scheduled to begin this spring, although design and shoring work have already begun. Once the main dam is operable, Sait Creek's flow will revert to its original path and a flood threat will exist at the trailer home site.

Takahashi said about 67 per cent of the dirt for the lakes has been excavated, with about 700,000 to 800,000 yards left to move. Plans call for the lakes to be used for recreational boating with most of the dirt piled into a

The project's purpose is to provide flood control and a recreational area. Takahashi said the recreational area may not be developed until 1980. He said about 60 per cent of the total project is completed.

Parks consider bids for moving museum

Elk Grove Park District officials are considering two bids received for moving a house donated as a historical museum.

Jack A. Claes, director of parks and recreation, said the bids were $5,800 by Grant House Moving of Addison and $6,400 by Advance House Moving of West Chicago.

The house must be moved from its current location, 1199 Arlington Heights Rd., to a site at Disney Park.

An earlier mid-December deadline for moving the house has been pushed back to mid-February because the current owner's new residence and business is behind in construction. The current owners are Anthony and Teresa Maioriello.

Cost of the moving will be paid for by the historical society with new museum tax revenue to be collected for the first time next year.

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in debate that the House language

Becky really makes the day

MERRY CHRISTMAS, Becky Goldstein. In her Hoffman Estates home far away from her native Vietnam, Becky will spend her first Christmas

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all, Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name. a new life - months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war.

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings in a longshot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian child and adopt her.

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture, Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her." Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to hide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girlfriends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed

"But she's not having any problems at all adjusting." Mrs. Goldstein said, "She can read ("a little bit," Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people. which is one of the things we were concerned about at first." Becky has learned from her friends, her mother said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School, Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine." Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything.'

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them apart," she said.

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Viet-

Dismal outlook for schools

Next 5 years in Dist. 54 to include higher taxes

by PAM BIGFORD

A five-year financial forecast for Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 shows a rapidly declining ability for the district to make ends meet and a good chance for higher taxes for residents.

The Dist. 54 Board of Education previewed the five-year forecast at a board meeting Thursday. The board discussed the possibility of scheduling a tax rate increase referendum for voter approval Feb. 14, but deferred action until the Jan. 15 board meeting.

The administration also recommended scheduling a $350,000 construction referendum to build a new administration center for the same

SUPT. WAYNE Schaible urged the board to set a tax referendum for Feb. 14, saying "If we wait too long to make these recommendations to the public, we're going to end up like some of our neighbors - millions of dollars in the hole."

District residents presently are taxed $1.98 per $100 equalized assessed valuation of their homes for the district's education and operations funds. The maximum the district can tax residents without losing some state aid is $3.55 for the funds combined. administrators said.

The administration has not yet recommended a specific amount to increase the tax rate, but officials said it will be "nowhere near the maximum."

A Dist. 54 resident with a home assessed at $10,000 now pays about $198 a year in taxes for the education and operations funds. If the rate is increased by 25 cents, the same resident would pay about $223. If the rate is raised 50 cents, about $248 would be

THE LAST TAX rate increase in Dist. 54 was in 1967, when the rate was increased 33 cents from $1.65 to $1.98 for the education and operations

Officials said a tax rate increase has not been necessary since 1967 because the state aid formula "vastly increased" the district's income and because industry and homeowners have continued to move into the dis-

However, rising inflationary costs have sent the cost of education per pupil "spiraling upward," school officials said. The district's cost per pupil in 1967 was $513; today it is $1,100. Class size in 1967 was about 30 pupils while the average class today numbers 25, calling for additional staff.

THE ADMINISTRATION also recommended the board ask voters to approve the $350,000 construction referendum to supplement the district's presently inadequate funds to build a n e w administration center on Schaumburg Road near Schaumburg

United jets preparation starts today

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday. The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7,000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

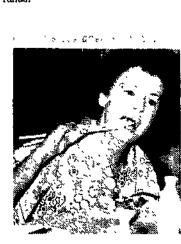

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it. They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday. would be "expedited looking toward

Becky really makes the day

MERRY CHRISTMAS, Becky Goldstein. In her 1 Hoffman Estates home far away from her native Vietnam, Becky

will spend her first Christmas

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all. Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name, a new life — months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war.

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings in a long-shot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian child and adopt her.

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture. Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her." Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to hide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girl-friends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed.

"But she's not having any problems at all adjusting," Mrs. Goldstein said, "She can read ("a little bit," Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people, which is one of the things we were concerned

Becky has learned from her friends, her mother

said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine," Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless, however.

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had boped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Vietnam'".

For now, though, the Goldsteins are preparing for

by JERRY THOMAS

The Rolling Meadows City Council has authorized the abatement of approximately $272,000 in collectible taxes, despite a warning from the city treasurer that the action "will leave the city in a financial bind."

The action, taken in special session Thursday, will mean a $25 tax break on a home assessed at $10,000

on a home assessed at $10,000

lowing categories in the tax levy:A $15,000 crossing guard levy;

$10,000 levy for audit;

$100,000 road and bridge levy;
$8,000 mental health tax;

$122,000 Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund levy.

TREASURER Robert Cole advised the council against the action and urged it instead "to leave the taxes on." "Collect the maximum property tax the city levied so we don't have to keep looking over our shoulder," Cole Cole warned that abatement of some taxes for the remaining five months of the fiscal year may lead to charging residents for services later

"People would rather have the tax which they can deduct from their income tax than pay a garbage or other service bill they can't deduct," he said.

Aldermen William Ahrens, 2nd, and Daniel Weber, 4th, voted against abatement. Acting City Mgr. Charles Green also urged the council to maintain all taxes.

Ald. Kenneth Retzke, 5th, voted for abatement and said," I'm still not convinced we have to provide all the services we do provide. Perhaps we should provide less service at a lesser tax rate. Maybe we've gotten carried away and citizens don't want all that," Retzke said.

IN PREVIOUS years taxes have been ahated because the city had surplus funds from increased sales tax or other revenue sources. This fiscal year the city has found itself short of tax revenue because of the economy and mistakes in the budget and tax levy.

A hiring freeze has been in effect since July and a moratorium on nonessential spending has been in effect for months.

Thursday, the council also trimmed approximately $300,000 it had expected to spend for the remaining 1975-76 fiscal year. The largest portion of the cuts was in anticipated salarnes.

colls reminded the council that it voted earlier this year to add four men to the fire department.

"Revenue provided by the tax levy could have paid those salaries and others. The tax levy was a step in the right direction," Cole said.

Mayor Roland Meyer did not attend the special session and could not be reached for comment.

United jets preparation starts today

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday.

The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7,000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it. They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said, W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday, would be "expedited looking toward

Plans for the installation of recreational facilities at the Wilke-Kirchoff retention basin received approval Thursday from the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Sanitary district approval was needed because it provided partial funding for the basin, designed to alleviate flooding problems in the southwest section of Arlington Heights.

The recreational facilities, to be instatled by the Arlington Heights Park District, include three softball diamonds and a soccer-football field. Plans have been prepared for lighting the three softball fields, said Thomas Thornton, park district director.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress and President Ford Friday agreed on a compromise tax cut bill containing a vague promise by the lawmakers to hold down government spending.

Ford said he would sign the bill. The compromise, achieved only minutes before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, meant withholding taxes will not go up in January but will instead continue at the reduced levels the 1975 tax cut as any future tax cuts. The House verprovided last spring.

Over-all, the bill goes beyond this year's cuts and will mean a slight reduction in income taxes next year for most taxpavers.

After a day-long struggle involving Ford and Democratic leaders from both the House and Senate, Senate leaders agreed to accept the House version of language promising to cut the 1977 budget by the same amount

sion was watered down somewhat from the Senate's more specific promise to cut "dollar for dollar."

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in debate that the House language amounted to as firm a commitment to cut spending as the language of the earlier Senate bill.

The apparent compromise was a dramatic reversal from the hard headed position both Ford and the Democrats took less than 24 hours earlier when it appeared that Congress would go home for Christmas

County, trailer court reach accord on sale

by TOM VON MALDER

An out-of-court settlement allowing the Cook County Forest Preserve District to purchase the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park was reached Friday between the mobile park owner and district officials.

The settlement could save the state close to $200,000 in material and labor costs if the park's residents can be relocated before the area is flooded as part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed project.

James A. Ronan, Forest Preserve attorney, said, "We reached an agreement on the price and a court order will give the forest preserve title to the land." He would not disclose the amount of the settlement.

THE SETTLEMENT must be approved by Forest Preserve commissioners, tentatively at the Jan. 5 meeting. Money must be paid and the title conveyed before the relocation of the residents can begin.

Ronan said it would take about three months to relocate the 750 residents of the 11.6-acre park, 941 Hig-

The residents have to be moved by June or July at the latest if the state is to save the majority of the $200,000 for flood-control equipment and installation of pumps for the trailer park area, said James Takahashi, engineer of construction, Illinois Dept. of Transportation, division of Water Resources.

The state recently ordered $60,000 worth of pumps and other equipment which will be used to protect the park from flooding if still inhabited when the main dam is completed. Labor to install the pumps and build a levee around the property would bring the total cost to about $200,000.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress and President Ford Friday agreed on a compromise tax cut bill containing a vague promise by the lawmakers to hold down government spending.

Ford said he would sign the bill. The compromise, achieved only minutes before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, meant withholding taxes will not go up in January but will instead continue at the reduced levels the 1975 tax cut provided last spring.

Over-ail, the bill goes beyond this year's cuts and will mean a slight reduction in income taxes next year for most taxpayers.

After a day-long struggle involving Ford and Democratic leaders from both the House and Senate, Senate leaders agreed to accept the House version of language promising to cut the 1977 budget by the same amount as any future tax cuts. The House version was watered down somewhat from the Senate's more specific promise to cut "dollar for dollar."

Asked if Ford could accept the compromise, Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan said, "It's as sure as it can be."

Ford's main requirement for signing the bill, according to Senate leaders was that senators make it clear in debate that the House language amounted to as firm a commitment to cut spending as the language of the earlier Senate bill.

The apparent compromise was a dramatic reversal from the hard headed position both Ford and the Democrats took less than 24 hours earlier when it appeared that Congress would go home for Christmas and allow tax cuts to expire on Jan. I

inally demanded, the bill was exactly the same as the one he vetoed on Wednesday.

Ford earlier told the Senate he would accept its version of the spending language, which was attached to the tax bill, 82 to 0. The bill itself passed 73 to 7.

Later, when angry House Democrats changed some of the wording of the Senate pledge, House GOP leader John Rhodes said Ford would prefer the Senate version. But Rhodes did not say that Ford would veto the House version.

"The President does prefer the Sen-ate version," Rhodes said. "I find no great fault in either one of them." The House then passed the bill overwhelmingly with heavy GOP support on a vote of 372 to 10. Ford has consistently said he would not sign any tax cut bill that did not (Continued on Page 3)

Becky really makes the day

MERRY CHRISTMAS, Backy Goldstein. In her Hoffman Estates home far away from her native Vietnam, Becky will spend her first Christmas

by Toni Ginnetti

Becky Goldstein still isn't completely convinced that a man called Santa Claus will secretly descend the chimney of her home Christmas Eve and leave behind the record player she wants.

After all, Santa Claus never came to Vietnam.

But there are a lot of things new happening for 8-year-old Becky this year. A new home, new name. a new life - months and miles away from her ravaged Southeast Asian homeland.

The whole idea of Christmas will be a new experience for "To Oahn", the foster child Norman and Georgia Goldstein ventured to Vietnam in April to find during the last days of that country's war.

THE HOFFMAN Estates couple spent their savings m a longshot attempt to bring back the Amer-Asian child and adopt her.

And despite the warnings of many who said the child would have difficulty adjusting to the new culture. Becky in only eight months has learned English, settled into her surroundings and nearly blotted out the horrors of war she grew up with near Saigon.

"She used to ask us if there are any mean men here who will hit her." Mrs. Goldstein said. "And she told us how her mother used to hide her under blankets and say she was dead because the mean men were looking for her to hit her.

"SHE TOLD us how she saw her brother killed. She calls him a brother, but I think it might have been a cousin or an uncle. She saw one of her girlfriends and the girl's parents killed, and she's talked about the houses near hers being bombed.

"But she's not having any problems at all adjust-g." Mrs. Goldstein said. "She can read ("a little bit." Becky adds) and she understands about 95 per cent of what she reads. She'll try everything, and that includes food. And she's not afraid of people. which is one of the things we were concerned

said, both the neighborhood children and her third grade classmates at John Muir School. Language has proven to be no problem for her, and she is doing well in her special morning bilingual class at Adolph Link School, Mrs. Goldstein said.

"I THINK if you treat them normally they will be fine." Mrs. Goldstein said. "It's when you give them special treatment that they will think they're different. Even our caseworker (who visits regularly until Becky's adoption is finalized) said we've treated her as if she was ours from the first day.

"We never forced her to call us mommy and daddy, but she does. She just feels that she belongs."

"Adjusting" for Becky hasn't been totally painless,

"Once and a while she'll get sad, especially thinking about her little brother. One day she said she didn't like me because we didn't go back to get her brother. I told her we couldn't. It wasn't that we didn't want to get him, it was that we couldn't.

"That she understood, but for a while it really bothered her. At times she would lie in bed and cry and I felt so bad because I couldn't do anything."

THE GOLDSTEINS had hoped to adopt another orphaned Vietnamese child, an infant boy, but the child's adoption papers were never completed. Now the couple hopes to adopt another girl about Becky's age within the next year.

"It's amazing to us that there are so many kids that need homes and so many homes that need kids, and there's so much red tape that keeps them apart," she said.

"I wish we could have done more (while the couple was in Vietnam). I think about all the people we could not help. I'd like to go to Cambodia where the refugees are. My husband says 'oh, you'll never go' and I tell him 'that's what you said about Vietnam.

For now, though, the Goldsteins are preparing for Water quality settlen.ent to go back to state board

A negotiated settlement of charges that Citizens Utilities Co. violated water quality standards will go back before the Illinois Pollution Control Board in the next few weeks, said Assistant Atty, Gen. James Jenks.

Jenks said Thursday efforts are under way to change the wording of the agreement, which was rejected by the pollution control board earlier this

"It's a linguistics problem," Jenks said. 'And we should have no problem correcting it." THE POLLUTION control board objected to terms of the agreement, which called for $1,000 to be paid to the state "in lieu of a civil penalty" for violation of standards. The board members said they did not have the authority to waive such penalty fees. The original complaint filed in March by the Illinois Attorney General's ofice asked for penalties of up to quality standards. Board members also objected to the settlement because it contains no provision that consumers be notified of regular hydrant flushing. "We should be able to resolve this within the next few weeks," Jenks said. "It shouldn't take a long time."

Submitted to the pollution control board in October, the settlement was the result of months of talks between the utility company and the attorney general's office.

THE AGREEMENT covered charges that Citizens Utilities failed to provide its customers with safe, clean water. It specifically concerned customers in Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Wheeling Township, estimated to include some 6,300 residential meters.

As part of the settlement, the utility company agreed to install special tanks to remove sand and oil from its water system. Also included were agreements to establish a special monitoring system, maintain routine hydrant flushing and participate in educational and other informational programs.

The case against Citizens Utilities was based on testimony given at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing on water quality. Many residents then complained about sand, oil and rust in their water, low pressure and water outages.

United jets preparation starts today

by KURT BAER

Crews began repositioning United Air Lines jets at Chicago's O'Hare Airport today in preparation for the limited resumption of flights Monday. The reactivation program included recalling by telegram 5,250 pilots and 7.000 flight attendants; preparing 355 jets that had been "partially mothballed" to protect parts during the strike and reordering supplies ranging from meat to jet fuel.

United started accepting flight reservations at 3 p.m. Friday following tentative agreement with the striking machinists union that had grounded its planes since Dec. 6.

United expects to resume 36 per cent of its regularly scheduled flights including all westbound flights to Hawaii Monday, 80 per cent Tuesday and 100 per cent Wednesday, Christmas Eve, an airline spokesman said.

THE TENTATIVE contract agreement with the International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers still must be ratified by union members. Details of the new contract were withheld pending ratification.

Settlement was announced in Washington Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session between the company, union, a special assistant to President Ford and the chairman of the federal mediation board.

"I don't think I've ever witnessed the principals of a dispute work harder to settle it. They certainly have the concerns of the traveling public in mind," said W. J. Usery, special assistant to Ford.

USERY DECLINED to comment on whether the union had won its contract demands.

George Robinson, district president of the union, said a vote on the proposed contract, expected Sunday. would be "expedited looking toward

More than 'hocus pocus' puts hypnosis into focus

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Don't be afraid to look Kathy White in the eyes just because she's a praclicing hypnotist.

She says she uses her skills to help others relax and gain enough confidence to accomplish their goals. She takes her work seriously and abhors the stage-show misconceptions that most people have about hypnosis.

Mrs. White said she and about 125 other members of the National Hypnotic Research Center, Arlington Heights, research every facet of the technique and offer reputable hypnotic counseling and training to Northwest suburban residents.

HYPNOSIS IS still a practice frowned upon by many medical sodoctors. It is not fully understood by the public, although some doctors refer patients to practicing hypnotists when all other cures fail. Then again, other professionals regard it as "hocus pocus."

The state has no licensing procedures for hypnotists and there are no schools for certification of the practice. Hypnotists merely pass along the skill through organizations like the research center, Mrs. White said,

Members of the nonprofit organization, all suburban residents, come from all walks of life. They offer their hypnotic skills in counseling or training sessions as a second job.

Most of the group's members were introduced to hypnotism as a solution to their own problems or as a way to discover the source of their fears, she didn't," Mrs. White said. "The whole problem was that I was tense and uplight, like most people are."

THE MOUNT Prospect housewife was once tormented by chronic headaches. She said medication didn't work and neither did therapy, so she resorted to hypnotic counseling as a last resort.

Her first experience with hypnosis was similar to that of other research center members who turned to the technique to overcome their smoking, overweight or insomnia problems and

"The subconscious mind is like a computer or large memory bank where anything anyone ever, touched, smelled or experienced is stored, and this is what we tap to discover the source for a fear or problem," Mrs. White said.

SHE DOESN'T use oval watches on a swinging chain or a pendulum to induce the hypnotic state.

Instead. Mrs. White instructs patients to focus on an object in the room, completely relax their body muscles and clear their minds. The subject concentrates deeply on the steady, monotone of Mrs. White's voice which repeatedly suggests that the patient relax.

The session continues as the hypnotist asks the patient to hink back o a time in his past, to a situation that might be the key to fears or prob-

The hypnotist also suggests that the patient see himself in a positive image - slim if he wishes to loose weight or strong and healthy if he wishes to quit smoking and improve his health, she said.

president, offers such weekly training courses in addition to operating The Mystic Eye, a Rolling Meadows book store which specializes in written materials on hypnosis and other similar techniques.

Mrs. Frink became interested in selfhypnosis in 1969 as a method of overcoming her weight and shyness problems, she said.

Today, she is an executive secretary for United Airlines, living in Des Plaines, who also finds time to author such books as "A Modern Introduction to Hypnosis."

today the attitude is cha ing. People want to know why and how. They want to learn," Mrs. Frink

However, Barbara Schweitert, the center's vice president, said it is still difficult to introduce hypnosis into the business world as a "tool helpful in improving one's self."

Two years ago, she began MIND (Moving in New Directions), a group of professional hypnotists who offer self-hypnosis seminars to business-

"The response that we've had has been favorable, but not in the quantity that we hoped for. It's a matter of proving our credibility to those in the corporate structures," she said.

One way the research center is attempting to ensure its success in promoting hypnotism is by performing experiments in age regression, telepathy and astro mind projection, which is when a person projects himself to a place where he's never been.

"We get enough volunteer subjects for our research," said Pres. Edward Dalman. "But, it's a matter of acquainting people with what hypnosis really is all about and then getting

'Hey you guys...' Only 14, his favorite star is Cagney

The quiet of Keith Mitchell's room at Northwest Community Hospital was broken when the phone rang. Keith's mother, Helen, answered it.

"Hello, Mrs. Mitchell. How are you?" The caller was actor James Cagney, Keith's favorite movie star.

When she held the phone to Keith's ear he opened his eyes. "I don't know what was said. We'll never know," she said.

KEITH MITCHELL is a sick boy. He developed a rare form of brain cancer 16 months ago. Now the 14-year-old Arlington Heights youth lies in a semicoma. When the man whom he has impersonated for many years called, he could only listen.

"Even as sick as he has been the past year Keith has still always impersonated James Cagney," Mrs. Mitchell said. "He hasn't been able to talk for a couple months but he'd still go through the motions. Until two

"He always got a laugh out of everybody.

The call was initiated by "a friend" from Arlington Heights who called the secretary of radio personality Wally Phillips to tell of Keith's love for Cagney. Phillips' secretary contacted Cagney's agent a few weeks ago with the idea but the actor had been gone until Thursday. Even then Cagney with his agent during a half-hour train delay and was told of Keith's condition.

"MR. CAGNEY WAS very, very pleasant," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I'm only sorry he didn't do it a couple months ago so Keith could have done his act for him. He was great at it."

After talking to Keith for almost five minutes, Cagney spoke again with Mrs. Mitchell. "Give him a big hug and kiss for me," he said.

"After the call I asked Keith if he knew that he had just talked with James Cagney. He shook his head yes," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"I was so overwhelmed I started to cry. I'd love to know what he said."

Lot beautification a priority: panel

Beautification of the parking lot behind the village hall should be a priority in next year's budget, the public works committee will recommend to the Mount Prospect Village Board.

The beautification project, to be a joint effort between the village and merchants carries an estimated $28,500 cost which is to be divided according to property lines with the village picking up nearly $19,500. Trustee E. F. Richardson said the village might be able to finance the project with revenues produced from parking meter installation. The parking meter proposal is being studied by the board's finance committee. THE PROJECT includes lot resurfacing, underground electrical cables installation, placement of new curbs and bumpers and extensive planting. The merchants have tentatively agreed to use a common screened garbage area.

As part of the beautification program, the merchants have been asked to consider developing rear entrances to their stores with common merchandising promotions.

Harold Predovich of the village's downtown commission said final agreements have not been signed with the merchants. He said these agreements will outline the merchants' financial obligation to the project.

budget is tight, the committee members said they would like to see the matter given high priority.

Holiday lunch for elderly sponsored by Maine Twp.

Maine Township will sponsor a Christmas luncheon for senior citizens at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Casa Royale, 783 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Ferdinand C. Arndt, Maine Township senior citizen coordinator, said entertainment has been planned for the event and Maine Township officials will meet with senior citizens. A cash bar will precede the luncheon at 11:30 a.m.

Only seniors who are Maine Township residents will be permitted to attend. In the five months since the committee was formed, the number of seniors attending township-sponsored affairs has grown to a size that guests can no longer be accommodated.

Seniors who wish to participate or would like to be added to the group's newsletter mailing list should call Bea Ballin, 827-0745, or the Maine Township office, 297-2510.

New staffer at Incentives

Stuart Gold has joined the staff of Incentives Institute, a not-for-profit psychological treatment center in Des Plaines, as a therapist and counselor. Specializing in child and family counseling, Gold holds a master's degree from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. A therapist intern, Gold will work under the direction of Luan D. Camp, clinical director.

Dist. 57 caucus to interview board hopefuls

Candidates to the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 Board of Education will be interviewed next month by a committee of the Dist. 57 General Caucus.

The caucus nominating committee will interview candidates to determine their qualifications for membership on the board and will make recommendations to the general caucus in February.

Three 3-year terms now held by board members Martha Rotelli and David Kluxdal and Board Pres. Peter Olesen will be on the ballot in school board elections April 10.

Candidates may contact the chairman of the nominating committee, Marlene Fasick, 259-2895; vice-chairman George Michael, 394-9458; or other delegates and alternates to the committee: Lois Brothers, Paula Charron, Carlton Bach, Elizabeth Gallanis, Robert Naden, Jane Nelson, Ronald Osowski, Stephanie Schoenberg, Michael Sheehan, Ralph Stadler, Cliff Tiedeman and David

- we want to avoid being the catalytic agent for groups in this community to fight with each other. We have to try, in this day and age, to bring reason to this situation," he said.

"WE SHOULDN'T be surprised that

Dist. 21 gets calls on holiday music

Gill said district policy is "quite explicit and meets the legal requirements.'

District policy maintains that holiday activities and programs may have a seasonal theme but not religious themes and that traditional songs and customs, even though their origins may have been of a religious nature, may be used. Policy also states that instruction in the social and historical aspects surrounding religious festivities should be accomplished with good taste considering the wide background of the pupils.

"We try our best to leave religion out of our programs and try not to offend anyone," Gill said. "When we have deep religious beliefs with our parents in the community and with our teachers in schools, the interpretation of what's religious and what's cultural sometimes comes in conflict.'

Board member Lillian Stiller suggested the district next year study what happened in school programs this year and analyze what was done to prevent future problems.
